PREFACE.

REGARD for ancestors, with a strong desire to aid in preserving many of their records from oblivion, is one of the motives which prompted the compilation of this work.

Genealogy occupies a unique department in literature, in that it requires unmeasured patience and perseverance and a devoted love for the work on the part of one who assumes the burden, coupled with the fact that very inadequate pecuniary reward will be realized in return for the time expended in producing desired results, so that the task must be considered purely as a work of love.

The compiler began his work about twenty years ago by personal search of records in the early homes of the Cadys in Massachusetts and Eastern Connecticut. Since then the work has been continued, as time permitted, by research in many other localities, in private and public records, and by extensive correspondence with members of the family in most of the states of the Union. Hundreds of letters have been sent requesting records, but it is to be regretted that some of them have received no response, thus allowing a partial lack of data which a little attention might have supplied. But the sincere thanks of the compiler are due the majority who have kindly responded.

The compiler thankfully acknowledges the aid rendered him by the late Prof. Daniel Cady Eaton of New Haven, who contributed his researches to be used in the work. By Frederick Waterman Cady of East Providence, R. I., who turned over his valuable material which he began collecting many years ago, concerning his own and some other branches of the family. By the late Dwight Holmes Cady of Springfield, Mass., for the records and well-drawn portraiture and environments of his immediate ancestors. By Miss Flora May King of Somersville, Conn., who, using for a basis the data left by her cousin, D. H. Cady, has, during the past ten years, admirably succeeded, with great care and patience, in completing quite fully the records of the descendants of Daniel Cady of Stafford, Conn. By Judge William Gere Cady of Syracuse, N. Y., for the loan of his carefully collected records of the many families connected with his branch of the Cadys. By Monroe Marsh Cady, lawyer, of Dubuque, Iowa, for his many contributions and aid in other ways. And last, but not least, by Curtis Converse Cady Bradley of Manchester, Iowa, who has furnished many records, and by untiring effort has identified William⁴ Cady of Plainfield, Conn., as the father of Dea. Eleazer Cady of Hinsdale, Mass., about whom much uncertainty had long existed. These sources of aid, combined with the long list of those who have so generously responded to the call for records, have been important factors in contributing to the successful outcome of this genealogy. Although lack of space forbids further mention here of individual cases, yet the simplest record received has been appreciated, and will be by all concerned.

Attention is called to the leading characteristics of a majority of the descendants of Nicholas Cady, which have been push, progress and patriotism. They figured largely and honorably in the wars of the Revolution, of 1812, and in the late Civil strife. They have always been among the pioneers who have settled the newer portions of our country, east and west, where also they have been men of affairs. They have furnished members for Congress and state legislatures; large numbers for all the leading professions, for successful merchants and hosts of private citizens, respected for their moral worth.

Much material came late to hand which had to be used without the usual extension. The same cause accounts for most of the fractional numbers. While the compiler has taken great pains to insure correctness of statement, he is aware that errors will occur with the most rigid proof reading and the most kindly intending copyist. So the compiler would be thankful for the correction of any errors found in the book. The self-imposed task has been accomplished and the result is sent forth with the hope that it will serve as a new bond of family union and that the deeds of honorable progenitors may ever be an inspiration for progressive endeavor on the part of all present and future descendants of Nicholas Cady, our worthy ancestor.

EXPLANATIONS.

THIS genealogy is arranged according to the plan adopted by the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, which has come into general use. Thus on page 20, the figures on the extreme left of the page denote the successive numbers of the heads of the families which will be taken up again; when a number is omitted before a name it indicates that such a name will not be mentioned again. Thus on page 20, number 10—i. James, etc., we find on page 28, where James is brought up with full particulars and his full family record is given. The small exponent³ figures on page 28 which follow, thus: 12 James³ Cady, (James², Nicholas¹), show the number of generations from the common ancestor, Nicholas Cady.

ABBREVIATIONS.—Abt. for about; b. for born; bapt. for baptized; ch. for children; d. for died; dau. for daughter; m. for married; unm. for unmarried.

OLD AND NEW STYLE.—All dates prior to 1742 are supposed to conform to the old style then used.

INTRODUCTION.

Origin of the Name of Cady.

ARTHUR, in his Etymological Dictionary of Family Names, says that Cady is derived from Ca-dia, a Gaelic word signifying the House of God. He also says that Cadie in Scottish is an errand boy, a messenger. From the foregoing it would seem that the name had its origin among the Gael of the north and was nourished there later by the Scotch, from whom it found its way over the border into England, where it has long flourished; thence it came early to America, where it has taken deep root and furnished a host of worthy representatives, from the hardy yeoman to men in business centers and honored names in all the nobler professions of our land.

This patronymic, like many other names, has undergone many changes in spelling. In the ancient Hundred Rolls it is Cade, then Caddie, Caddy, Cadye, Kadye, Cadey, and last, Cady, which form now holds in this country.

Cady Coats of Arms.

Quite a number of Cadys in several of the English counties have been honored with coats of arms, viz.: Caddy, 1; Cade in Derbyshire, 2; Cade in Rumford, County Essex, 1; Cade in Greenwich, County Kent, 1; Cade in County Suffolk, 1; Cadye and Kadye in County Gloucestershire, 2; the latter is described as follows: "On a mount, vert, a cocatrice, or; combed and wattled, ducally gorged and chained, or." *

*Vide Book of Family Crests, vol. 2.

Cadys in England.

Stephen's National Biography says: "The name of Cade was not uncommon in Sussex, in the neighborhood of Heathfield, in 1450."

We find the name of Walto Cade and Margery Cade in the ancient document called the Hundred Rolls. In 1450 we find Jack Cade the leader of a formidable rebellion in Kent. "Over-taxation, the bad management of the Council, the extortion of the subordinate officers, the injustice of the king's bench, the abuse of the right of purveyance, the "enquestes" and amercements, and the illegitimate control of elections were the chief causes of the rising of 1450." The rising was political and not religious. It was not a disorderly mob, but was a well organized rising of the people at large. "The Commons in 1450 arose against Lancaster and in favor of York. Their rising was the first great struggle in the Wars of the Roses." *

Cade and his rebels defeated the royal forces at Seven Oaks June 27, and took possession of London July 2, 1450, but soon after they were beaten in a battle and forced to quit the city. Cade, the leader, was killed near Heathfield, Sussex, July 12, 1450." †

The Cadys of Devonshire.

In 1892 Prof. Daniel Cady Eaton of Yale University and the compiler of this work engaged Mr. J. J. Howard, Maltravers' Herald, an English expert, to search the Registers of Northam, Abbotsham and Bedford on the western side of Devonshire County, Eng., for evidence of Cades or Cadys in that locality. The result was that he copied from the various registers about 900 names of Cadys and the allied families of Rowe, Hooper, Strange, Lawrence and others, with whom they had closely intermarried since 1540.

The earliest name in the list is that of William Cade, bapt. in Northam, Devon County, Nov. 10, 1540, but his parents are not given. A list of his children followed in due time. As our search failed to find any trace of Nicholas Cade, a detailed report of the investigation is not deemed necessary, although there is some probability that he migrated from this locality.

In a list of Pedigrees in Visitation of the County of Hertford, 1592-1634, there is given the name of Cade of Kings' Langley.

THE HISTORY OF THE

REPUBLIC OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of the struggle for freedom and the pursuit of happiness. It is a story of the founding of a new nation, of the growth of a great empire, and of the triumph of the American dream. The story begins with the first settlers, who came to this land in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, a land where they could build a new life for themselves. They found a land where they could be free, a land where they could be happy. They found a land where they could be the first to see the dawn of a new day.

Godfrey Cade was witness to will of Mary Street of Bridgewater, England, July 16, 1625.*

John Park of London, Eng., merchant tailor, in will dated July 3, 1620, mentions brothers of his wife, Andrew Cade, Symond Cade, and the nephew, Walter Cade. Will proved Apr. 5, 1627.†

Salisbury Cade, b. Kent, Eng., 1660; graduated from Trunly College, Oxford, Eng., 1691, with title of M. D.; d. 1720.

Cades of Derbyshire.

Cade is the name of a very old Derbyshire family, and is to be found in the early Parish Registers of Chesterfield, Eckington, Barlborough, Staveley, etc. The Pedigree Register of June, 1909, just received from London, gives an extended and interesting list of descendants of John Cade, who in 1327 was one of the six inhabitants of Eckington assessed at 60s for goods. The record extends from 1327 to about 1800.

The above citations are given to show that the Cadys were not limited to a single locality but were dispersed from an early date in many of the English counties, of whom a goodly number were honored by the bestowment of coats of arms for valor or other deeds deemed worthy of royal favor.

Migrations of Cadys to America.

James Cade, who settled in Hingham, Mass., 1635, was bapt. May 16, 1611, the son of Christopher Cade, bapt. Apr. 10, 1583, son of James Cade, bapt. June 29, 1552, all natives of Northam, County Devon, Eng. The younger, James Cade, married Aug. 21, 1633, Margaret Browne of Bidford, near Northam. Their first child was Philip, born in Northam Mar. 20, 1635. Some time in 1635 James Cade migrated to New England, for we found he "was the first one to draw his house lot in Hingham, Mass., Sept. 18, 1635; his lot was next to the sea, what is now Ship St., in Hingham." He was one of the 29 first settlers.‡

†Vide N. E. Gen. Reg., vol. 43 p. 510.

‡Vide N. E. Gen. Reg., vol. 1, p. 250.

We next hear of him in Boston, Dec. 4, 1638, when he and his wife Margaret mortgaged their property in Northam, lately belonging to his father, Christopher Cade, and his mother, May Hopper. In this mortgage he styles himself as a shipwright.* His wife Margaret was admitted to the church in Boston 19 (1) 1643. Their child Margaret was born 4 (8) 1640. The last we hear of him is that he removed to Yarmouth (probably Nova Scotia).

In a list of persons licensed to go beyond the seas is given the name of William Caddy, Jan. 2, 1634, to be transported to Virginia in barque Bonaventure. Also ticket granted to Hubert Henry on ship John and Henry for Bristol, Thomas Cades, commander. Benjamin Cady of Andover, Mass., m. Feb. 16, 1664, Mary, dau. of Keyes of Newbury. Jonathan Cady of Rowley m. Nov. 12, 1667, Esther Chandler of Andover. We hear no more of either of these last two Cadys.

A Peter Cade was of Boston and on March 12, 1738, was chosen constable and excused.† He was keeping tavern in Cambridge in 1748, and died in 1752, leaving a son Peter, aged 14.‡ Josiah Cady came from England and made a permanent settlement in Canaan, Conn., date not given, but his oldest son, Josiah, born in England, died 1800 in Falls Village, Conn. From the fact that William, the oldest child of Josiah², was born in 1785, it would appear that the elder Josiah did not come to this country till about 1760. Descendants still remain in Litchfield Co., Conn., and elsewhere.

"Thomas Cade of Sturgis, St. Joseph Co., Mich., was born in Yorkshire, Eng., Jan. 7, 1786; died at Sturgis, March 9, 1879, in 94th year. He emigrated in July, 1830, going directly to Sturgis, where he purchased 320 acres of prairie land. He was always engaged in agriculture, was successful and was of most honorable and honest character. He left three sons, Stephen W., well known for his generosity, served as supervisor for many years with credit; another son Joseph has a handsome farm and buildings."§

DESCENDANTS OF NICHOLAS CADY

Of Watertown and Groton, Mass., 1645---1909.

WHILE we have no certain knowledge of the locality in England whence Nicholas Cady came to this country, or the exact date of his advent here, yet one or two suggestions are offered, either of which may possibly be a solution of the matter.

For a time it was thought that he was a son or brother of James Cade of Hingham, both of which assumptions have been disproved, for James Cade was not married till 1633, a date too late for Nicholas to have been his son, and the will of Christopner Cade proved that he had no son Nicholas. The search in Devon County, Eng., failed to find a Nicholas Cady, yet he may have been born there, for the Registers give evidence that during several years no entries were made, and in a number of cases the entries were not legible, which fact leaves one with a feeling of doubt.

Another suggestion is that he came over a minor in 1630 with William Knapp, as a carpenter's apprentice, for we know that Nicholas Cady was a carpenter, as was William Knapp, who came from near Bury St. Mary, County Suffolk, Eng., where he left his daughter, Elizabeth, who had married; and as there were Cades at Stoken Stein in the same county at that time, it is quite reasonable to suppose that Nicholas Cady, a younger son, might have been bound out as an apprentice to Knapp, as was the custom of the time, and that he might have been allowed to migrate with his master to America, as many another scion had done. We know that Nicholas was very intimately connected with the Knapp family for some years before his marriage with Judith, the daughter of William Knapp; which fact adds force to the supposition that he might have been a member of the family as an apprentice. The very first undoubted record we have of him is a partnership with John, the son of William Knapp, as follows, from Suffoik Deeds, book 1, p. 66-67, dated 8 (10) 1645 :

"Wm Potter of Watertown granted unto Nicholas Cadey and John Knapp his house in Watertown, house lott of Eight Acres adjoining unto John Bassetts lott and three Acres meadow in the remote meadow bounded with Isaac Mixters, East & John Waterbury west and south & dividends on the north. Also six Acres upland in the Liev of the township & a certaine ffarme be layed out according to his pportion & this was by an absolute dead of sale 8 (10) 1645

Witness That Purchas, Wm Aspenwall, Acknowleged before the D: Gov:."

The record of the sale of the above-mentioned interest to John Knapp is as follows :

"Suffolk Deeds, book 1, p. 134. Nicholas Cadye for valuable consideration did grant assigne & make over unto John Knap of Watertown all his right & title in & unto a certain house & houses granted jointed to them both by a deed dated 8 (10) 1645 and this was by assignment dated 6 () 1650 signed and marked & dd in presence of Wm Aspenwall & Theopilus Manning."

Nicholas Cady married Judith Knapp, dau. of William of Watertown. No date has been found, but presumably about 1648.

The following is taken from Bond's Watertown :

Wm. Knapp, a carpenter, proprietor, 1636-7, probably came in 1630 with Nicholas Knapp. William died Aug. 30, 1658, aged about 80. Will dated 1655 shows his heirs to have been :

William, who d. Sept. 25, 1676 ; m. (1) Mary ; m. (2) Margaret.

John, b. 1624 ; m. May 25, 1660, Sarah Young.

James, b. 1627 ; m. 1654, Elizabeth Warren.

Mary ; m. Thomas Smith of Watertown.

Judith ; m. Nicholas Cady of Watertown.

Anne ; m. Thomas Philbrick ; was dead and her children took her share.

Elizabeth Buttery, widow, of Bury St. Mary, Suffolk, Eng. ; her share $\frac{1}{3}$ was sold by Attorney T. Danforth to Nathaniel Coolidge.

William Knapp mentions no wife in his will, but in the settlement of his estate his widow, Priscilla, received one-third of it, besides a debt due to her for a sum loaned before marriage by Widow Priscilla Akers. He married (probably between the writing of his will and his death) Priscilla, widow of Thomas Akers; most of his estate passed from the possession of his heirs to that of Nathaniel Coolidge. In 1652 Nicholas Cady, with others, took the oath of fidelity.* On 5 (2) 1653, Nicholas Cady was of the Train Band of Watertown, under Capt. Mason.† December 24, 1667, Nicholas Cady, carpenter, of Watertown, exchanges house and land at Watertown, Mass., with John Clary, carpenter, as follows:

"This indenture made the 24 day of December Anne Domina 1667 between John Clary, senr of the town of Watertown in the County of Middlesex, carpenter on ye one part and Nicholas Cady, carpenter of the same Town and County on the other part, Witnesseth

That the said John Clary in consideration of an exchange of a certain house and land lying and being in the Township of Watertown to him in hand paid by ye sd Nicholas Cady at the sealing and delivery of this whereof ye said John Clary doth acknowledge the receipt & himself therewith fully satisfied & paid thereof Doth fully & absolutely acquit & discharge the said Nicholas Cady his heirs executors & administrators by these hath with ye consent of Sarah Clary his now wife in so forever surrendering up her thirds according to law in the several Lands promising expense in this writing with all and every of their appertenance given, granted, bargained, said and do by these, give, grant, Bargain sell Confirm & Deliver unto said Nicholas Cadey his heirs, assigns forever, his whole accommodations lying & being in the Township of Groton aforesaid, Viz:—One house & house lott with the addition fifty one acres, more or less lying on both sides of ye County highway."

The above was not placed on record for many years, as shown by the following:

"John Clary of Watertown appeared before me the thirty one day of July & freely acknowledged the writing to be his act & Deed Received and accordingly entered July 31, 1707 probably sister of Nicholas.* She d. Dec. 23, 1681, leaving no children.†

He must have removed to Groton in the early part of 1668, for we find that on Sept. 10, 1668, Nicholas Cady of Groton, planter, and wife Judith, sold to G. Lawrence six acres of land in Watertown and five acres of meadow in Cambridge.

On the 3d of the 11th month, 1669, a description of his land in Groton, Mass., was recorded.

Dec. 10, 1671, Nicholas Cady was surveyor at Groton. His name appears among others on the Indian rolls of land grants that were made before the town of Groton was burned by the Indians in 1676.

The Indian war commenced Mar. 13, 1676, and Groton was assaulted and burned by them, and the inhabitants who had taken refuge in the garrison house were rescued by Capt. Sills Lee with fifty dragoons and 60 carts, who had been sent to rescue them. Many of the inhabitants sought shelter at Concord, where a meeting of the former residents of Groton was held Dec. 12, 1677, to consider the rebuilding of the town. Nicholas Cady's name not appearing in the list of those who desired to do so, and from the fact that on May 14, 1678, Nicholas Cady of Cambridge bought of John Wincoll 60 acres of land in Cambridge for £17-10s, inclines one to believe that he did not return to Groton for some time. He was probably in Mr. Williams' garrison, for in a paper to the General Court, dated at Groton March 14, 1676, it states that "Daniel Adams did kill one Indian at Mr. Williams' garrison. Witness John Cady & Samuel Wood. We saw him fall to the ground and not raise up again, Nicholas Cady."

Jan. 9, 1679, Nicholas Cady conveys to his daughter Judith, now the wife of Alexander Rouse, for and in consideration of the natural affection and parental love for her, eleven acres of land in Groton, Mass.

June 8, 1680, he was chosen surveyor.

December, 1680, he is mentioned among lists of heads of families.

In 1681 he paid a tax of 18s 2d (only one person in Groton was taxed more.)

On 12 d, 10 m, 1682, engaged with others to pay his part of a £70 rate.

On 25 d, 10 m, 1683, chosen surveyor at town meeting.

On 29 d, 11 m, 1683, purchased of the town for 5s fifteen acres of land.

On 18 d, 1 m, 1683/4, is recorded a sale of 6 acres of land in Cambridge for £15 by Nicholas Cady of Groton, planter, to J. Winter. Also on same date, for valuable consideration of money, sold to Simon Cooledge, two pieces of land in Watertown, one a dividend of 25 acres, the other 6 acres; guaranteed by him and his beloved wife Judith.

On Dec. 10, 1685, Nicholas Cady was chosen constable.

On 10 d, 10 m, 1685/6, was chosen surveyor.

On 9 d, 9 m, 1685, "it was granted to Nicholas Cady a small pes of land at the South Sid of ingin hill at the Sid of his own lot Soo he Dooe in no way in trench upon the hye way."

In 1673 and 1675 Corporal Cady was appointed one of the fence viewers, who no doubt was Nicholas Cady, who had received military instruction under Capt. Mason in the Train Band at Watertown.

On May 12, 1712, John Cady of Groton sells to Capt. Jonas Prescott of G., "Several parcels of land with half the later Rights belonging to Old Nicholas Cady, that doth now appear to be disposed of."* On May 16, 1712, John Cady, husbandman, of Groton, sells several parcels of land, describing them "with one-half ye town rights formerly Nicholas Cadys, deceased, or now mine the Sd John Cady's."†

We have no record of the date of the death of Nicholas Cady, or that of his wife Judith, or the place of their demise; but doubtless their last days were spent in Groton, and from the last two items above we infer that Nicholas Cady lived with his oldest son, John, to whom fell a goodly portion of his father's limited estate. We also learn that he had deceased prior to 1712. Nicholas Cady resided near Cady's Pond, named for him, located about a mile southeasterly from the village of Groton, on the Boston road.

The foregoing account, simple and unpretentious, is all that the records of the past vouchsafe to us of the life our ancestor, Nicholas Cady, and his wife Judith. We would gladly draw aside the veil that enshrouds so much of their lives in mystery, but as that is impossible we are left to read between the lines of some probabilities connected with them.

If our surmise is correct, that Nicholas Cady a native of Suffolk County, Eng., and came over with William Knapp in 1630; he may have been a connection, near or remote, of that Cade of Suffolk who bore a Coat of Arms, or of that Edward Cade of Stoken Steen, a contemporary in 1634. After the completion of his apprenticeship to William Knapp (providing he was an apprentice) he marries the daughter of his master, and in Watertown, where he first settles, all his children are born; then he goes to Groton, where a strenuous life begins in a new settlement with all the incidents which that statement brings to mind, to which was added later a life in garrison with a constant fear of savage assault, so imminent that all sought safety in retreat, leaving their homes to be burned by the Indian enemy. Several years later he returned to spend his days in Groton, where peace and prosperity is enjoyed, surrounded by his children, and honored by his fellow-citizens, who appreciate his worth.

No lettered tablets mark the last resting place of Nicholas Cady and his wife Judith; their only monuments were their children, whose successful and honored careers testified to the wealth of mental endowment inherited from their parents.

Children of Nicholas and Judith Cady, b. Watertown, Mass.:

2. i. John, b. Jan. 15, 1650/1.
3. ii. Judith, b. Sept. 2, 1653.
4. iii. James, b. Aug. 28, 1655.
 - iv. Nicholas, b. Aug. 2, 1657; d. Jan. 21, 1657/8.
5. v. Daniel, b. Nov. 27, 1659.
 - vi. Ezekiel, b. Aug. 14, 1662; probably d. young, as we hear no more of him.
6. vii. Nicholas, b. Feb. 20, 1663/4.
7. viii. Joseph, b. May 28, 1666.

2. JOHN² CADY, (Nicholas'), b. Watertown, Mass., Jan. 15, 1650/1; m. Joanna ———; dates of death of himself and wife not ascertained. He evidently went to Groton, Mass., with his parents in 1668, and remained there till about 1712, as we find quite a number of land transfers signed by him and wife Joanna from 1699 to 1712. We find him in Canterbury, Conn., May 28, 1716, where he bought real estate and transferred it the same day to his son Jonathan, with whom he doubtless arranged to live. As yet no date has been found of the marriage of John Cady and Joanna ———, but it is reasonable to suppose that it was about 1676, when he would have been twenty-five years of age. The birth dates of his older children are not recorded, and it is evident that four other children ought to be added to his family, not on the records, for there seems to be no other legitimate place for them among the Cady families of Groton, where the records are sadly lacking in full dates. For reasons given in the proper place, we feel justified in adding the names of Hannah, Esther, Mary and John to the fully accredited list of John and Joanna Cady's children, with the approximate dates of their birth.

Children :

8. i. Hannah, b. 1667/8.
- ii. Abigail, b. abt. 1680.
- iii. Amos, b. abt. 1684 ; d. Aug. 3, 1688.
- iv. Esther, b. abt. 1686 ; m. March 27, 1711, John Adams of Canterbury.
9. v. Mary, b. abt. 1690.
- 9a. vi. Jonathan, b. Jan. 22, 1693.
- vii. Joanna, b. Oct. 14, 1695.
- 9b. viii. John, b. abt. 1697.

3. JUDITH² CADY, (Nicholas¹), b. Watertown, Mass., Sept. 2, 1653 ; m. May 15, 1672, Alexander Rouse of Groton.

Children, b. Groton, Mass. :

- i. Judith Rouse, b. Feb. 2, 1673 ; d. April 1, 1673.
- ii. Elizabeth Rouse, twin with Judith ; d. June, 1673.
- iii. Elizabeth Rouse, b. May 23, 1675.
- iv. Sarah Rouse, b. July 26, 1686.

4. JAMES² CADY, (Nicholas¹), b. Watertown, Mass., Aug. 28, 1655 ; m. June 14, 1678, Hannah Barron, b. March 6, 1658. He d. in Groton, Mass., Dec. 2, 1690. Date of her death has not been found. Hannah, the wife of James Cady, was the dau. of Ellis and Hannah (Hawkins) Barron ; her grandfather, Ellis Barron, was a freeman in Watertown in 1641, where he was constable and selectman. Her maternal grandfather was Timothy Hawkins, who was of Watertown in 1635 and died there in 1651. Ellis Barron, father of Hannah Cady, made his will Dec. 31, 1711, which was probated 8, 7 mo., 1712, in which a certain sum was devised to Hannah Cady or her heirs. The inventory of James Cady's estate was £69 9s.* Administration was granted to John and Joseph Cady on estate of their brother, James Cady of Groton, deceased, June 16, 1691. This is the language of the original court record; in the copy as often quoted it is James instead of Joseph. It would seem that James Cady was of Watertown, where his first child, James, was born, and that a little later he also removed to Groton, where he was living at the time of his death. The date of death of his widow, Hannah, is not known. Of James Cady's children James, Elizabeth and Aaron are known to be such, and the others in the following list are such with great probability, for there seems nowhere else to place them.

Children :

10. i. James, b. Watertown, Mass., April 1, 1679.
11. ii. John, b. abt. 1680.
12. iii. Daniel, b. abt. 1682.
- iv. Abigail, b. abt. 1684; m. April 24, 1707, Ezekiel Cady, (See No. 15), her cousin, son of Daniel Sen., as recorded in Pomfret, Conn., records. (See Ezekiel Cady, No. 15.)
- v. Elizabeth, b. Groton, Mass., April 10, 1686.
13. vi. Aaron, b. Groton, April 7, 1688.

5. DANIEL² CADY, (Nicholas¹), b. Watertown, Mass., Nov. 27, 1659; m. July 6, 1683, Mary Green of Groton. He d. Canterbury, Conn., April 4, 1736; she d. April 11, 1736. He removed to Groton, Mass., with his parents, and sold his real estate there in 1707/8, where he is called carpenter. On April 14, 1714, "Jabez Allen of Killingly conveys to Daniel Cady Sen., living north of ye town of Canterbury for £104 a tract of 600 acres adjoining Tatnick Hill, same farm adjoining that of Richard Adams." † Daniel Cady settled on this farm with his large family, and there he spent his days in peace and prosperity. He represented the town of Canterbury in the Connecticut General Assembly in 1717. In 1724 he gave land for a burying place, which now forms the original part of Samuel Spalding, who married either Rachel or Eunice, was the son of Samuel³, John², Edward¹, b. Chelmsford, Mass., June 4, 1699; removed with his parents in 1706 to Canterbury, Conn. In 1726 he shared in the division of his father's estate as elder son, receiving £156-17-6. Had a son Uriah and probably other children.† Little is known of him further.

He sold his real estate in Watertown, Mass., Nov. 6, 1703, and during the following year removed to the Quinnebaug valley, now Putnam, Conn., where with other members of the Cady family he was one of the early settlers. He bought up many grants of land and sold to other settlers. He removed from Old Killingly prior to 1720 and located in Preston, Conn., where he purchased a mill property and conducted it till his death. Patience, his widow, was of Preston, Jan. 27, 1728/9, when her late husband's brother, Capt. Joseph Cady, gave her a quitclaim deed of undivided land in Killingly.‡

Davis, b. Groton, Mass., Aug. 12, 1667. Capt. Joseph Cady d. Killingly, Conn., Dec. 29, 1742. Date of his wife's death has not been ascertained. Dr. Samuel Green, the Groton historian, is the authority for stating that Davis was the surname of Joseph Cady's wife, as noted in the following extract, written by him in July, 1907, to Judge F. A. Henry of Cleveland, O.:

"In my copy of Butler's History of Groton, p. 391, I have written Davis after the name of Sarah, wife of Joseph Cady. I probably got it from the Middlesex Probate record office at Cambridge. In connection with this matter I would refer you to the Groton Historical Series 3, p. 365, where you will find some facts about the Davis family."

Referring to the above book as directed, we find the name Sarah Davis, she being one of a family of eight children of Samuel and Mary Davis of Groton, Mass.

Joseph Cady removed to Groton with his parents when he was an infant, and in that town he spent his youth and young manhood; then, at the age of ten, he began to experience the strenuous life of the early settlers of Massachusetts, in the three assaults of the Indians in the month of March, 1676, when the inhabitants sought protection in their garrisoned houses, which were bravely defended till relieved by Capt. Lee of Cambridge, who escorted them and their effects to Concord; there also he had service with his brothers, John, Daniel and Nicholas, in the garrison defense of the town during the Indian disturbances of 1691-2. After immediate danger from the Indians was past, he returned with the other people who had left Groton, who sought to repair the damage they had sustained. In 1695 he was chosen Constable of Groton, and was granted permission by the General Court to keep an inn from 1699 to 1701. He disposed of his real estate in Groton Feb. 22, 1702/3, and on Jan. 20, 1703, he bought 150 acres of land for £20 of John Chandler of Woodstock, located in Aspinock,* later called Killingly, now Putnam, Conn., where he removed his family and where he spent the remainder of his life. This farm was located north of the old Providence road, about one mile easterly from the present city of Putnam. The site of his first abode, a log house, can still be identified on the south side of the farm. As an evidence of his prosperity, he built a pretentious house in 1714, which was occupied by himself and descendants for many years. The general appearance of the house may be judged from the photograph herewith given. The writer visited the old house in 1895 and found it deserted by tenants and fast going to ruin. It had a frontage of two stories; in the center was the conventional stone chimney of the olden days, with a huge oven and fireplace in the kitchen, and fireplaces for the reception and family rooms. There were six rooms of varying size on each floor, of ample proportion and convenience.

A short time before his death Joseph Cady Jun. sold this homestead to Darius Session, Deputy Governor of Rhode Island, who made it his summer residence; a few years later, during the dark days of the Revolution, this house became a familiar resort for noted men, including Washington, who is said to have been entertained there during one of his trips across the country. It next came into the possession of Solomon Cleveland, whose brilliant family became the center of attraction in the old township.*

In the course of time this property changed from hand to hand, and finally became the home for changing tenants till it was deserted in 1893, when it was said to have been the oldest standing house in N. E. Connecticut.

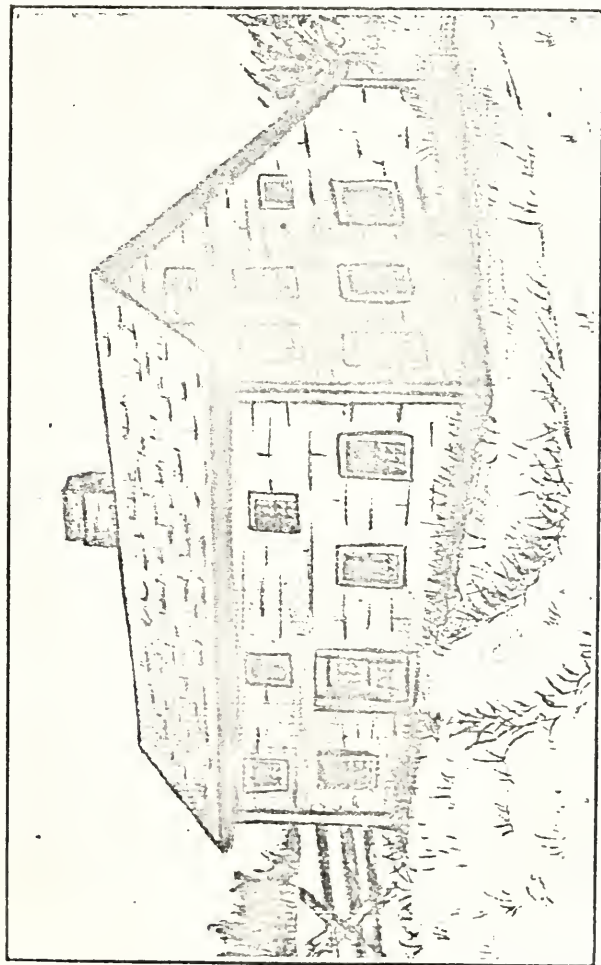

The ability of Joseph Cady found early recognition in his newly-adopted home, for in 1708 he was chosen Lieutenant of the soldiers or Train Band of Aspinock, and confirmed as such by act of the Colonial Assembly in same year.† In 1721 the Train Band was reorganized and Joseph Cady was chosen Captain, Ephraim Warren, Lieutenant, and Thomas Gould, Ensign.‡ During his captaincy Luther Rase's war resulted in Lovewell's expedition and the New England colonies were in a ferment, and Capt. Joseph Cady was one of the "three military officers" from Killingly who were engaged, as stated by Miss Larned. On returning from one of these perilous expeditions he was thus greeted by an old squaw whose family he had befriended: "Oh, Massa Cady, I glad to see you; I so glad I could drink a whole quart of rum."§ Capt. Cady was noted for his giant frame and physical prowess, and he gained notable influence over the Indians, with whom he had much intercourse, from the fact that his farm produced quantities of their sacred medicinal herbs, for which they came in often quest, and as this was considered neutral ground they left their animosities behind.

However, the following tale relates an unfortunate result of a friendly meeting with an Indian :

"As Joseph Cady was one day cutting brush alone, an Indian approached him from the neighboring forest and expressed a strong desire to try the skill of a white man in wrestling. Cady thought to himself that if he could throw the fellow it might operate to deter the Indians from hostilities against the settlements, and accordingly accepted the challenge. Both men struggled long and desperately ; but Cady at last prevailed and the Indian was prostrated. Unfortunately he fell among the brush which his antagonist had been cutting, and one of the sharp stumps perforating his skull, he died on the spot."*

Capt. Joseph Cady had charge of the public lands of Killingly for many years, and was a useful man of general public affairs, as the many town records of him testify. On March 25, 1728, he was chosen townsman. He was Deputy, or Representative, from Killingly in 1731-1734.

and Sarah Warner. The following is the record at Concord, Mass. : "Samuel Warner and Hannah Cady, both of Groton, were married at Concord Oct. 15, 1706." The inscription on the gravestone of Hannah, wife of Samuel Warner, is that she died April 22, 1775, in her 98th year, making her born 1677/8. This proves the statement impossible that Hannah, the widow of James Cady, married Samuel Warner. It also proves that Hannah was not a daughter of James and Hannah Cady, who were married June 14, 1678, and whose first child, James, was born nine months later, viz. : April 1, 1679. Granted that Hannah was a daughter of John and Joanna Cady, we have a good reason for her being called Hannah, as a compliment to the wife, Hannah Barron, who had that same year married James, the brother of John Cady.

The first of these is the fact that the human race is not a homogeneous mass, but is composed of many distinct groups, each with its own characteristics and history. These groups are known as races, and they are distinguished from one another by their physical and mental traits. The second fact is that the human race has a long and varied history, and that its development has been influenced by many factors, including environment, climate, and social conditions. The third fact is that the human race is constantly changing, and that its future is uncertain.

The study of the human race is a complex and difficult task, and it requires the cooperation of many different sciences. The most important of these are anthropology, which is the study of the human race in general, and the various branches of biology, which are the study of the individual human being. The study of the human race is also a practical task, and it is one that is of great importance to the human race as a whole.

9b. CAPT. JOHN³ CADY, (John², Nicholas¹), b. Groton, Mass., abt. 1697; m. Mary Fuller. He has been given a place in the family of John² Cady, because there seems to be no other probable place for him with the other Cadys of Canterbury. Only one child has been identified as his, but probably there were others.

Child:

Lucy, b. abt. 1729; m. July 17, 1750, John⁴ Litchfield, (Nicholas³, Josiah², Lawrence¹), b. probably in Scituate, Mass., 1721; bapt. Sept. 24, 1721; d. Brooklyn, Conn., Jan. 20, 1785, ae. 64; she d. Brooklyn, Conn., Nov. 8, 1803, ae. 74; buried in Brooklyn cemetery beside her husband and dau.

He d. in Pomfret, Conn., Jan. 18, 1742; she d. there May 18, 1741. Both are buried in Brooklyn, Conn. He was of Sherburn, Mass., a taylor, where in 1709/10 he sold land in Groton, Mass., that was his father's. He was of Marlboro 1712 to 1716, where his first three children were born.* In 1716 he removed to Pomfret, Conn., where he bought 100 acres of land of Richard Adams. He was a member of the first church in Brooklyn, Conn., when it was organized in 1734.

11. SERGT. JOHN³ CADY, (James², Nicholas¹), b. Watertown, Mass., abt. 1680; m. abt. 1698, Elizabeth ~~Fitch~~; m. (2) Elizabeth, probably dau. of John and Sarah (Fitch) Stoughton, b. Feb. 19, 1692, and widow of Joseph Mather, who d. Nov. 7, 1717. The date of neither marriage is known. Sergt. John Cady d. Sept. 6, 1751; his widow, Elizabeth Cady, d. Feb. 29, 1760; both buried in East Windsor, Conn. The first wife was probably the mother of the five oldest children. ✕

The following account of Sergt. John Cady is taken from the notes given the compiler of this work by Prof. Daniel Cady Eaton several years before his death:

"John Cady, probably the son of James. The records of transfers of land show his residence in Groton, Mass., 1699-1701; Plainfield, Conn., 1704; Canterbury, 1704-1721; Tolland, 1721-1725; Willington, 1725-1727; Windsor, 1728-1739; Coventry, 1740; Tolland, 1740. Probably he soon returned to Windsor, where he d. Sept. 6, 1751. One of the Tolland deeds, Sept. 6, 1721, conveys to his "brother Daniel Cady of Tolland 254 acres of land for £65." Another deed, from Daniel Cady Jr. of Canterbury to "my brother John Cady of Willington," dated Aug. 3, 1725, reconveys the same land for £160. Investigations in Windham county show that this Daniel Cady Jr. was neither Daniel Cady of Tatnick Hill (Brooklyn) nor his son, but was the Daniel Cady who came from Groton to Aspinock on the Quinnebaug River in 1707, and lived most of his life in Killingly. In the History of Windham County, Daniel Cady of Aspinock is confused with Daniel Cady of Tatnick Hill, who was a son of Nicholas Cady of Watertown. Similarly, Sergt. John Cady is confused by Bond and Savage with his uncle John, son of Nicholas Cady, for Joanna, wife of John Sr., was living long after John Jr. had children born by his wife Elizabeth. That this John Cady was the son of James Cady of Groton is inferred from the following facts: He lived in Groton with the other Cadys, and with them came to Connecticut. Aaron, the proved son of James Cady, followed John to Canterbury and afterwards went likewise to Tolland and Canterbury. Cornelius, grandson of James and son of James Jr., also went to Coventry. Dr. Aaron Cady is asserted to have been either brother or cousin to Ebenezer, son of John Cady, by the descendants of both Dr. Aaron and Ebenezer, who settled together in Columbus Co., N. Y. John's age, as given on his tombstone, conflicts with this belief, but ages on tombstones are often wrong, as for instance: On the tombstone of Daniel Cady of Tatnick Hill and of Ebenezer, son of this very John. The families of the other sons of Nicholas are known, but in the family record of James there is a blank of seven years from the birth of James in 1679 to Elizabeth in 1688, which blank is the only place where the names of John, Daniel and Abigail can be inserted."

The compiler of this work takes the same view as stated above by Prof. Eaton, with the exception that the William whom the Professor originally included in the list was doubtless a son of Joseph Cady, a brother of James. This opinion is shared by others who have given the subject careful thought.

During this year (1909) a careful research under the charge of C. C. C. Bradley of Manchester, Iowa, has brought to light in the records of the Probate office at Hartford, Conn., the settlement of John Cady's estate. The estate was appraised Oct. 1, 1751, by Pelatiah Bliss, Thomas Drake and Aaron Bissell. Among things mentioned were silver buttons, ivory-headed staff, notes against a dozen parties, a Bible, but no land. Administration was granted to Elizabeth Cady and John Smith, Dec. 1, 1751:

"Distribution of the estate of Sergt. John Cady, deceased, made by us the subscribers under oath Jan. 9, 1753. The total amount allowed to each is given here, made up of cash, notes or goods.

In the distribution, Eleazer signed, but his share does not appear; it is probable that he had been given his share before his father's death. Ephraim Grant Jr. signed for his mother's estate, she having

The estate of John Cady as returned by the administratrix amounted to £959-12-9, less debts and charges of £145-3-9, leaving a balance of £814-9-5. John, William and Eleazer, sons of Sergt. John Cady, are said to have been in the English army under Gens. Putnam and Rodgers in the French and Indian Wars.

Children, probably by second marriage:

46. vi. Deliverance, b. 1722.
- vii. Child, d. Oct. 10, 1739. (Mr. Cady's child on the Windsor Record.)

12. DANIEL³ CADY, (James², Nicholas¹), b. Groton, Mass., about 1682; m. ——— Abigail Philbrick, b. March 6, 1686/7, dau. of Ephraim and Elizabeth (Barron) Philbrick. He d. in 1744 in Killingly, Conn. The date of death of his wife Abigail has not been found. It has been claimed that Daniel Cady married his cousin, Abigail Cady, dau. of John, but the following facts prove this claim to be an error.

Ephraim Philbrick, a brother of Abigail, wife of Daniel Cady, died without issue in 1775, and a part of his estate was inherited by Jedediah, son of Daniel and Abigail Cady, and a nephew of said Ephraim Philbrick. Another portion of said estate was inherited by Moses Winter, also a nephew, and a son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Philbrick) Winter. This Moses Winter was a brother of Elizabeth Winter, who married Samuel Cady (Stephen³, Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹).

Daniel Cady removed from Groton, Mass., to Killingly, Conn., in 1707, then known as Aspinock, and settled on a farm adjoining that of his uncle, Capt. Joseph Cady, where he resided till 1721, when he is said to have removed for a short time to Tolland. He was of Canterbury in 1725 and again of Killingly in 1730. In the spring of 1741 Daniel Cady and son Timothy of Killingly purchased of Samuel Chapman of Tolland 245 acres of land in the town of Stafford, Conn. "Said land lieth toward the North West corner of said township. The consideration paid was £430, current money. The deed was dated April 21, 1741." It was recorded March 26, 1742, in Stafford Town Records, vol. 2, p. 68. It is said they were the first persons by the name of Cady to own land in Stafford. Its location as near as can be ascertained was on what is now an abandoned road running east and west, north of what is known as Pond Hill and a mile or more southwest of what is called Ziklag Schoolhouse, in the northwest district.*

After the death of Daniel Cady, the Stafford farm came into the possession of his sons, Timothy and Jonas,* for whose benefit the farm had been purchased. Daniel Cady's farm in Killingly finally passed into the possession of William Larned, who built a large house thereon, which is still standing (1895), forming a part of the residence of William Plumer. plumer

The following table shows the results of the investigation of the effect of the various factors on the rate of the reaction. The rate of the reaction was measured by the amount of iodine liberated in a given time. The results are given in the following table:

TABLE I

Factor	Rate of reaction
Temperature	Increases with temperature
Concentration of iodine	Increases with concentration
Concentration of potassium iodide	Increases with concentration
Concentration of potassium persulfate	Increases with concentration

The results of the investigation show that the rate of the reaction is affected by the concentration of the various factors. The rate of the reaction increases with the concentration of each of the factors. The rate of the reaction also increases with temperature. 24. NICHOLAS³ CADY, (Nicholas², Nicholas¹), probably. Have not found records to identify him, but incline to the belief, with others, that he was a son of Nicholas² Cady. He settled in Weathersfield, Conn., where he married Oct. 12, 1749, Sarah Wright. He made his will, dated March 2, 1760, naming wife Sarah and sons William, John and Joseph.†

Children :

- i. Butler, b. Aug. 27, 1750; d. Nov. 25, 1754.
- ii. William, b. ———; m. Jan., 1781, Naomi Fitch.
- iii. John, b. ———.
- iv. Joseph.

In Probate Records at Pittsfield, Mass., No. 815, appears a petition signed June 28, 1768, by William and John Cady of Pittsfield, minor children of Nicholas Cady, late of Weathersfield, Conn., for appointment of Joseph Wright as their guardian. The above William and John Cady were of Pittsfield in the Revolution, and both had service in the war.‡

25. JOSEPH³ CADY, (Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. Groton, Mass., Oct. 3, 1690; m. Woodstock, Conn., Sept. 14, 1714, Elizabeth Hosmer. They were both baptized at Killingly, Sept. 9, 1716. He d. Aug. 7, 1768.

"Justice Joseph Cady was held in even higher esteem than his father, Captain Joseph. As a member of the committee on public lands he carried the town through many important controversies.

He served as town and society clerk, Deputy to the General Court, and held for many years the office of Justice. He was a man of substantial and progressive ideas; foremost in every scheme for public advancement. He was a constituent member of Pomfret's Farmers' Library Association of 1739. He built for his daughter Damaris, the wife of Rev. Pearley Howe, the gambrel-roofed house still standing on Putnam Heights, and sent his grandson, Joseph Howe, to Yale College. He was the first man to set up a coach or wheeled vehicle."* He was fond of reading and well versed in the books of his day. The first record book of Thompson Parish still bears testimony to his carefulness and skilled penmanship.

Children, b. Killingly, Conn. :

- i. Abelene, bapt. Sept. 9, 1716; d. June 30, 1741.

- vi. Mary, bapt. June 29, 1729.

26. WILLIAM³ CADY, (Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. 1692 (?), Groton, Mass. His birth is not found on the Groton records, but he was early with the other Cadys from that town, and there is little doubt that he was a son of Capt. Joseph Cady, for in fact there seems no other family to whom he could well be credited. The record of his marriage has not been found, but three of his children are found in the list of early baptisms in Killingly. The family settled in Plainfield, Conn. :

Children :

- 68. i. Benijah, bapt. April 15, 1716.

THEORY OF THE EARTH

The theory of the earth is a branch of geology which deals with the origin and development of the earth and its various parts. It is a science which seeks to explain the processes which have shaped the earth and its features, and to determine the time and place of their occurrence. The theory of the earth is based on the study of the earth's rocks and fossils, and on the principles of geology.

42. JOHN⁴ CADY, (Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Groton, Mass., Aug. 7, 1699; m. May 6, 1729, Hannah Abbott of Waterbury, Mass. Sergt. John Cady of Tolland deeded house and land in Tolland to his son, John Cady, for love and affection, dated March 23, 1726. John Cady Jr. bought land of John Abbott in Tolland for £28, dated 1729/30. John Cady Jr. gives land in Tolland to sons Nahum and Amos, Jan. 29, 1785. He was then of Tolland.

Children, b. Tolland, Conn.:

- i. John, b. June 29, 1730; killed by a cart running over his head Oct. 25, 1737. (Tolland Record.)
- ii. Hannah, b. June 24, 1732; m. Nov., 1753, William Shurtleff.
- iii. Son (unnamed), b. May 22, 1734; d. soon.
- 101a. iv. Elizabeth, b. June 6, 1736.
- v. John, b. and d. Jan. 31, 1739/40.
102. vi. Nahum, b. March 14, 1743.
103. vii. Amos, b. Sept. 3, 1747.

43. WILLIAM⁴ CADY, (Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Canterbury, Conn., Aug. 22, 1704; m. Nov. 11, 1727 or 1729 (as the record might be read either way), Phebe, dau. of Ensign Ephraim and Phebe (Main) Kingsbury of Plainfield, Conn., b. Jan. 8, 1703/04.

The statement in the Kingsbury genealogy that William Cady died prior to 1747 has just been disproved by an expert research under the direction of C. C. C. Bradley of Manchester, Iowa, as will be seen in the following briefs taken from the Plainfield and other records:

William Cady first bought land in Plainfield in 1739 and sold it in 1740, in which year his father gave him land in Coventry, Conn., to which town he removed and where he lived for some years. In 1748 he is back in Plainfield, when he buys land there. In 1750 he buys more land, which he sells to son William in 1759. On Jan. 9, 1753, he signs for his share of his father's estate, as has been shown in his father's record. The last record of land bought by him is in 1762. In 1772 he was of Ashuelot Equivalent (later Windsor, Mass.), when he sells land in Plainfield to son-in-law David Sheperd. In 1777 Timothy Laraby of Windham, Conn., attorney for William Cady of Gageborough, Mass., sells property for him in Plainfield.

This is the last land record we find of William Cady Sen. If probably settled in that part of the territory set off to Dalton, as the Cadys are said to have been early in that town. The family tradition is that William Cady removed from Dalton or near vicinity to Saratoga, where he purchased a large tract of land which included the present famous Saratoga springs. The house had been or was then used as a hotel, and that himself and wife were buried in an old cemetery on or near his property. Some 15 years ago one of his descendants visited the cemetery, which had been long neglected, and the inscriptions on the gravestones had become unreadable. It is rather unlikely that William Sen. purchased land in Saratoga after 1777, but it is quite likely that his grandson Jeremiah did, as he moved to Saratoga county, and it may be reasonable that his grandfather went with him.

From the foregoing, and the finding of the record on the church books in Plainfield of the baptism of Eleazer, son of William and Phebe Cady, Oct. 15, 1749, the long-mooted question of the parentage of the said Eleazer is forever set at rest, although the record in Eleazer Cady's Bible gives his birth as Sept. 6, 1750, instead of 1749, but a slight discrepancy like this sometimes occurs.

Children, b. Plainfield, Conn.:

- 104. i. William, b. June 8, 1729.
- 105. ii. Jeremiah, b. Oct. 17, 1731.
- iii. Phebe, b. Sept. 30, 1733; m. March 3, 1757, David Sheperd.
- 105a. iv. Eleazer, bapt. Oct. 15, 1749. (Church Record, Plainfield.)

44. CAPT. ELEAZER⁴ CADY, (Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Canterbury, Conn., March 15, 1708; m. Oct. 28, 1739, Kezia, dau. of Josiah and Sarah (Warren) Spalding, b. Plainfield, Conn., April 15, 1721. He was taxed in Windsor, Conn., in 1732, but later became a resident of Plainfield, where his will was dated Dec. 10, 1766, and proved March, 1767. It names wife Kezia, eldest son John, youngest son Squire and dau. Lucy, wife of Obediah Johnson of Canterbury. He was Captain of a troop of horse, Oct., 1759.*

Children, b. Plainfield, Conn.:

- i. Lucy, b. April 11, 1742; m. Obediah Johnson o Canterbury.

*Vide Conn. Public Records, vol. 11, p. 339

- 56. ii. John, b. May 16, 1744.
- 57. iii. Squire, b. Oct. 28, 1754.

45. EBENEZER⁴ CADY, (Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Canterbury, Conn., April 19, 1714; m. North Parish church, Stonington, Conn., Nov. 8, 1738, Prudence⁴ Palmer, b. Stonington, March 31, 1719, dau. of Jonathan and Mercy (Mannerling) Palmer. He d. in Canaan, Columbia county, N. Y., May 16, 1779. His wife, a most amiable woman and devout Christian, survived her husband many years, nearly to the close of the century, and rests beside her husband and children in the cemetery in Canaan.

At the time of his marriage he was registered from Lyme, Conn. He had received from his father in December, 1736, a gift of 53 acres of land in Windsor, Conn., "next to the great river," but probably he did not locate upon it, for it seems that soon after marriage he was of Tolland, where the birth of his daughter Prudence is recorded. Three years later he was of Lyme, where the next two children were born; then he was of Coventry, where the remaining children were born. Whether he returned to Lyme is not certain, but probably he did. He settled with his family in New Concord, now Canaan, Columbia county, N. Y., about 1764, where he remained till his death.

It is said that all the seven sons of the family had service in the Revolutionary war, which speaks well for their patriotism.

Children :

- 108. i. Prudence, b. Tolland, Conn., 1740.
- 109. ii. Ebenezer, b. Lyme, Conn., Jan. 20, 1743.
- 110. iii. Eleazer, b. Lyme, March 29, 1745.

50. ENSIGN JONAS⁴ CADY, (Daniel³, James², Nicholas¹), bapt. Killingly, Conn., Oct. 18, 1719; m. Oct. 22, 1746, Mary Green of Killingly; he d. Feb. 28, 1775. She m. (2) Benjamin Davis, and d. Jan. 6, 1823, ae. 94. She was cared for in her old age by her son, Jedediah Cady, and died at his house and was buried in the West

Stafford cemetery. In April, 1741, Daniel Cady, with an older brother of Jonas, purchased a tract of 245½ acres of land in the northwest division of Stafford as before noted. Daniel, the father, bought the land for the benefit of two of his sons, Jonas and Timothy. As the deed was not recorded till March, 1742, it is presumed they did not remove to Stafford till that year.

In Stafford Records, vol. 2, p. 131, we find that Daniel Cady transferred his interest in the 245½ acres to his son Jonas as follows: "In consideration of £250 current money, well and truly paid by my well and beloved son, Jonas Cady of Stafford, the one moiety one half part of a Certain Tract or parcle of Land Containing Two hundred and forty five acres and half." This deed was given Jan. 9, 1744. It would seem that the two brothers occupied the land jointly till 1752, when we find on the Town Records, vol. 3, p. 279, that each deeded to the other a half interest in the farm in consideration of £106 in bills of public credit, thus becoming separate owners. The writer, with Rev. C. C. Lyon, visited this old farm in August, 1909. It is located on a branch road turning off from the Lull district road near the residence of Mr. Kellogg, which leads to the farm of Harlow Kibbe on the west. Most of the road is now closed as it is not in condition for public travel, as the old Cady place is now without a tenant and has largely grown up to brush. The house, built by the brothers Jonas and Timothy before 1750, was, according to tradition, a large structure two stories in front and one in the rear, much like the illustration of the Capt. Joseph Cady house as found in this volume. We found the ancient foundation on which it was built, suited for a large building, and where a second and smaller house was erected which is now in utter ruins. The farm was one of the most rocky in Stafford; the old stone walls laid up for fences still remain in evidence of the great labor expended by the brothers. Why they located on such hard soil is a wonder, when much better land was cheap and available, yet like most of the Cady tribes, they were thrifty and made a success of life. In Oct., 1759, the General Court of Connecticut appointed and commissioned Jonas Cady Ensign of the 13th Company of the 5th Regt.

According to the tradition, the families of Jonas and Timothy Cady, with others in the neighborhood, often repaired at nightfall to the large house which stood on the present site of the Dea. Alden Davis house in Somers, for mutual protection against the roving Indians of the period, but no record of any tragedy has come down to us.

53. DR. AARON⁴ CADY, (Aaron³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Canterbury, Conn., Dec. 7, 1718; m. Nov. 8, 1738, No. Stonington, Conn., Ann Palmer.* In reply to the inquiry about the parentage of Ann Palmer, who married Aaron Cady, Judge Wheeler, author of the History of Stonington, Conn., says that by mistake he left out her name, and that she was the daughter of Jonathan and Mercy (Manning) Palmer, and sister of Prudence, who married Ebenezer Cady, both being married at the same time.

Immediately after marriage Aaron Cady settled in Coventry, Conn., as indicated by this entry on the Coventry records, Nov. 29, 1738.

"Aaron Cady of Coventry, to son Aaron Cady Jr., and Ann Cady his wife, 20 acres for £20."

The next entry is as follows :

"Jan. 23, 1739/40, Aaron Cady and his wife Annah Cady of Coventry to Ebenezer Stiles of Coventry £115 for 20 acres."

On April 9, 1739, we find Aaron Cady in Tolland, and on June 23, 1740, he had a deed of land in Tolland from his father. The last record of him in Tolland is in 1741. We find him in Canterbury, Dec. 7, 1746, when the birth of his son Nathaniel is recorded; and lastly there in 1752, when his dau. Elizabeth was born. Shortly after this he seems to have removed to Stonington, Conn. In a letter from J. Cady Brown of Minaville, N. Y., written in 1868 to Prof. D. C. Eaton, he says his great-grandfather, Aaron Cady, "was a doctor and died in Groton or Stonington, Conn. He married Ann Palmer, had children," etc., as given below. Some of the dates I have added from other sources.

73. SAMUEL⁴ CADY, (Stephen³, Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. Killingly, Conn., Feb. 24, 1724; m. Killingly, Conn., Jan. 1, 1746, Elizabeth Winter, b. Killingly, Jan. 7, 1728, d. Prescott, Mass., 1831, at the remarkable age of 103 years; he d. Shutesbury, Mass., April 8, 1799. Elizabeth⁴ Winter was the dau. of Samuel³, John², John¹. Her great-grandfather, John Winter, came from England in 1633 and settled in Watertown, Mass., his occupation being that of a tanner. Two of his sons, Richard and Thomas, and a daughter, Alice, remained in London, from which fact it is inferred that he also was of that city. He d. April 14, 1662, at the age of 90, leaving his property to his son John, who settled at Cambridge Farms, where he d. Jan. 18, 1690. Samuel³ Winter, b. March 16, 1684/5, settled early in Killingly, where he became a large land owner. He married Elizabeth Philbrick in Groton, Mass., Nov. 18, 1690, dau. of Ephraim³ Philbrick, John², Thomas¹. This Thomas came from Lincolnshell, England, in 1630, and settled in Watertown. The wife of John² Philbrick was Ann Palmer. The wife of Ephraim³ Philbrick and mother of Elizabeth, wife of Samuel Winter, was Elizabeth, dau. of Ellis² Barron, Ellis¹. The elder Ellis Barron was of Watertown before 1641, where he was Constable and Selectman. His son Ellis settled in Lancaster, Mass., and married Hannah, dau. of Timothy Hawkins, who came to Watertown in 1635.

On Feb. 3, 1748/9, Samuel Cady received from his father, as a part of his portion, a gift by deed of seven acres of land, situated on the county road from Woodstock to Providence, adjoining to land of Benjamin Cady. June 4, 1756, Samuel Cady bought of William Farmer of Killingly 60 acres of land with dwelling, etc., for £3000 in bills of public credit, according to old tenor.* He seems to have been a well-to-do farmer of those days. He disposed of his real estate in Killingly and removed to Shutesbury, Mass., in 1764, where he bought a farm just west of the old center and where he spent the remainder of his life. In July, 1890, the writer visited Shutesbury and the old farm where Samuel Cady lived, and later where Robert Allen, who married his daughter, Rhoda, also lived a few years. The old house had been taken down about two years previously, leaving the stone foundations and the cellar to mark the site. The little garden plot surrounded by a stout stone wall still remained. Dr. White bought the farm about 1830 and lived there many years; at the time of my visit the farm was owned by Martin Newell.

Samuel Cady, like his grandfather, Capt. Joseph Cady, was not lacking in patriotism when his country needed his services, for not only himself but his three sons served in the army. His daughter, Rhoda, grandmother of the writer, used to relate that her father was three years in the army, and that her mother and daughters did duty on the farm in his absence. The services of Samuel Cady and his sons, Jason, Jeremiah and Samuel, are found on the Revolutionary records at the statehouse in Boston. There is there a receipt, evidently in the handwriting of the elder Samuel, for a bounty of £90 received by him for three years' service in the army, dated April 6, 1781.

Further evidence is found that the elder Cady enlisted as a private in Lt. John Trask's company of Col. David Leonard's regiment, Feb. 26, 1777; was in service 44 days and marched to Ticonderoga, and was discharged April 10, 1777; that he enlisted again in the same year, Aug. 22, in Capt. Moses Harvey's company, Col. Woodbury's regiment, and was discharged Nov. 22, 1777. Of his personal service, other than the above, I have no knowledge. The foregoing has been given for the benefit of any descendants of Samuel Cady who may desire to become Sons or Daughters of the Revolution, the writer having been admitted to the Society of the American Revolution on the above evidence.

In Jan., 1775, Jonathan Cady, with others, contributed to a fund and secured three acres of land in Killingly for a common or training field. May 18, 1774, he was appointed and commissioned by the General Assembly of Connecticut, Lieutenant in the 4th Co.,

11th Regt., Conn. Militia, Col. Ebenezer William; the company was commanded by Joseph Cady, brother of his wife. May 25, 1779, he was appointed Captain. In 1785 his name appears as one of the listers of Killingly. About 1790 he removed to Providence, R. I., and leased land on what is now known as Cady street and erected thereon a house, the timber for which was from his farm in Killingly and drawn with oxen by his son David. His name first appears on the Providence assessors' list, Jan., 1792. On July 25, 1805, he was admitted a member of the First Baptist Society of Providence. In 1796 he was on a committee to procure a bell for the North Society of Killingly. His application for a pension was from Providence, dated Aug. 20, 1832, aged 86 years, which was granted as a Lieutenant, Jan. 17, 1833. James Leach had service in the Revolutionary war for six months as private, from June 26, 1776, in Capt. Asa Bacon's Co., Col. Chester's Regt.; also two months in 1777 in Capt. Ephraim Lyon's Co., Col. Barton's Regt.; and four months as Sergeant in Capt. Joseph Durke's Co., Col. Levi Wells' Regt. He was in the battle of White Plains, and received a pension, as did his wife for this service.

Mr. Leach removed to Pawlet, Vt., in 1780, and settled on the Willard Tract, which was granted by Benning Wentworth, located on the east side of the old bridle path running from Bennington to Danby, which path was surveyed in 1773 and laid out for a highway in the following year. He was a carpenter and joiner, but he first built a log house for himself. He built the first framed house in town in 1785. He contracted to build about 40 barns at $40 each, taking the timber from the stump and preparing it himself. He built the first brick house in town in 1804, making and burning the brick himself. This house is still standing in good condition. He was the chorister of the M. E. church for some years, Selectman from 1800 to 1809, and represented the town for several terms in the Vermont Legislature. Mr. Leach, being a man of forceful character, did much to shape the affairs of the town in early days. Both he and his wife bravely endured many hardships in their early pioneer life, but succeeded in establishing a fine home for themselves and children. For some years the nearest grist mill was at Bennington, thirty miles away. Mrs. Leach was an adept in the art of weaving, and wrought from wool and linen for table and bedding purposes many elaborate patterns so highly prized in these days. In 1815, aged and infirm, they gave their property to their three sons to be cared for during the remainder of their lives, giving to their daughter Eunice the sum of $800 in cash.

104. WILLIAM⁵ CADY, (William⁴, Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Plainfield, Conn., June 8, 1729. A careful search in the records of Plainfield, Conn., and near vicinity have thus far failed to reveal the date or to whom William Cady was married, but it is very probable that he was married before he left Plainfield to settle in Dalton, Mass. It is probable that he went to Dalton with his father about 1771, but we have but one definite record of him there, and that is the date of his death on the Dalton records as June 25, 1790, in his 60th year. We feel justified in applying this record to him as there was no other one of the several William Cadys of the locality to whom the date could refer. The widely separated dates of birth of his children allow us to suppose that he was twice married. He is said to have been one of the eleven proprietors of the town of Naples, Ontario Co., N. Y., in which township Canandaigua is now located.

Children:

198. i. Rufus, b. April 22, 1755.
199. ii. William Waterman, b. June 29, 1771.
- iii. Ruth (?), who is said to have m. Schmidt, a Hessian soldier.

105. JEREMIAH⁵ CADY, (William⁴, Sergt. John³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Plainfield, Conn., Oct. 17, 1731; m. Jan. 8, 1755, Abigail Lawrence, dau. of Thomas. He m. (2) Letitia ———, who survived him. We learn from the Registry of Deeds at Pittsfield, Mass., that Jeremiah Cady of Plainfield, Conn., bought land in Windsor, Mass., July 6, 1767, of William Williams for £15. On Dec. 5, 1769, he is said to be of Windsor, where he is recorded as buying land there. From that date till 1780 there are eight entries of land transactions by Jeremiah Cady of Windsor. On Sept. 1, 1780, Jeremiah Cady of Dalton deeds land in that town to son Jeremiah Cady Jr., in presence of William Cady 3d and Phineas Cady, sons of Jeremiah. He doubtless reckoned his father as William 1st, his brother as William 2d, and his son as William 3d. The last entry is Feb. 24, 1786, when Jeremiah Cady sells land in Dalton.

Jeremiah Cady and four of his sons, at least, sustained their patriotism by serving their country, for he and sons William and Phineas marched April 22, on the Alarm, to Cambridge, where the father was Major in Col. John Patterson's Regt. till Aug. 1, 1775, and his two sons were privates during the same time. Jeremiah Cady Jr., the boy of 15, enlisted in the same regiment June 3 of same year and served two months and three days. Another son, Warren Cady, enlisted Oct. 12, 1781, on an alarm, and served 18 days. The sons William and Phineas both enlisted in the Continental army and served for several years.

Jeremiah Cady died in Saratoga in 1798. His son John was granted letters of administration Nov. 5, 1798.* The after history of this family has not been ascertained by the compiler, save that of Jeremiah Jr.

church records in Plainfield. According to his own record he was born Sept. 6, 1750, but in some way he must have made an error of a year. He m. (1) Mary Converse, who d. Jan. 20, 1779, ae. 26. He m. (2) Elizabeth Curtis, b. June 27, 1761, d. Dec. 13, 1846, ae. 85. He d. in Hinsdale, Mass., Oct. 28, 1830. He probably removed to Berkshire Co., Mass., with his father about 1771. In the land records at Pittsfield, Mass., we find that Eleazer Cady of Partridgefield (now Peru), Mass., bought land in Dalton, Mass., Sept. 17, 1779. On April 12, 1803, Eleazer Cady of Partridgefield bought land in that town. On April 8, 1805, Eleazer Cady of Dalton bought land in Hinsdale, Mass. He assisted in building the Baptist church in Hinsdale in 1797, and became a deacon of that church. He had service in the Revolutionary war as follows: Private in Capt. Zebulon Norton's Co., Maj. Caleb Hughes' detachment from Berkshire Co.; enlisted July 11, 1777, discharged July 27, 1777, service 16 days. Also in Capt. John Stevens' Co., Col. John Barnes Berkshire Co. Regt.; enlisted Sept. 6, 1777, discharged Oct. 2 1777, service 16 days with Northern army.

121. JUDGE JESSE⁵ CADY, (Jonas⁴, Daniel³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Stafford, Conn., 1751; m. 1773, Jerusha, dau. of Moses Chapin of Somers, Conn. He d. May 8, 1810; she d. July 22, 1829. He resided in West Stafford, Conn., upon or near the homestead of his father Jonas. The Stafford Town Records, vol. 4, p. 186, show record of deed from Jonas to Jesse Cady of an estimated fifty acres for the consideration of £50 "for and in consideration of love, goodwill and affection, which I have and do bear to my son Jesse Cady of Stafford, and for other good consideration, me moving thereunto." The above deed is dated April 12, 1773.

Jesse Cady filled many positions of trust. He was elected Representative of the town of Stafford for eleven consecutive years. He was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1783. In May, 1795, he became Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Tolland County, also Judge of Probate for the District of Stafford, which included at that time the towns of Stafford, Somers, Ellington, Tolland, Willington and Union. He was also appointed State Attorney, May 17, 1798. These offices he held until his death. For many years he served as deacon of the Congregational church in West Stafford. It is related that one of the first official acts which Jesse was called upon to perform after his appointment as Justice, was to unite a couple in marriage. His brother Hezekiah, thinking to surprise and confuse him, came to the wedding as a self-invited guest in his working garb from the field. Jesse was equal to the occasion and turned the surprise upon his brother by saying that it was customary to have prayer offered at the close of wedding ceremonies, and invited Hezekiah to pray.

123. JEDEDIAH⁵ CADY, (Jonas⁴, Daniel³, James², Nicholas¹), b. West Stafford, Conn., Oct. 6, 1759; m. Dec. 27, 1782, Rhoda, dau. of Josiah Holmes, b. Ashford, Conn., March 10, 1765. He d. Jan. 10, 1831; she d. May 11, 1844. They were buried in the old cemetery in West Stafford Street. Jedediah Cady was born in West Stafford, on the original homestead purchased by his grandfather, Daniel Cady, in 1741. He was probably named for his uncle Jedediah, who lived and died in Killingly. He enlisted in the war of the Revolution Jan. 7, 1778, in the company of Capt. Roswell Grant of East Windsor, Conn. He served nearly three years and was honorably discharged Dec. 9, 1780. The pistol that he used during the service is now owned by one of his grandsons. About two years after his discharge from military service Jedediah Cady married Rhoda Holmes. Her half brother, John Holmes, married Esther, dau. of Timothy Cady. Her sister, Sarah Holmes, married Solva Converse, and another sister, Mollie Holmes, married Abner Cady. By these marriages the Cady, Converse and Holmes families of Stafford first became related.

Jedediah and Rhoda Cady settled in the immediate vicinity and in the same district of his birthplace. He first purchased 17½ acres of land of James Morris, March 13, 1783. On Oct. 10, 1786, he purchased of Isaac Cushman, 80 acres of land for £200. This farm is located on the east side of the road from old West Stafford Street, or Meeting House Hill, so called, to South Wilbraham, now Hampden, Mass., the second farm south of the state line. This farm has since been known as the Walter Temple place. The farm north of this, adjoining the state line, was owned by his brother, Dea. Hezekiah Cady, and afterwards by his son, John Cady. Here it was that all the children of Jedediah Cady were born, with the possible exception of Sarah and Olive. April 15, 1807, he purchased of Stephen Scott, the Tray Hollow* farm of 75 acres bounded and described as follows: "North on said Jedediah Cady's land, west on Elijah Town's, south on Daniel Carpenter's and Ebenezer Harris', and east on Noah Trask's land." The amount paid was $1300. The family removed to Tray Hollow in the spring of 1808. After removing to Tray Hollow Jedediah Cady "Kept Tavern" for a time. The house was a long one-story building with an attic, standing on the west side of the road. Since his time it has been removed and replaced by a more modern dwelling. A perennial spring on the hillside furnished an abundant supply of running water for the house and barn. The out-buildings were two barns, a cider mill and a "Still House" for stilling cider brandy. The tavern sign was a square one, suspended between two posts opposite the house, having the picture of a lion on one side and on the other "Travelers' Home," with the significant motto, "Pay to-day, trust to-morrow." As was the custom of those days, patrons were served with rum or cider brandy in moderate quantity. As may be supposed, Jedediah Cady did not allow his house to become a low resort, for he was an ardent Methodist and his house was a meeting place for the brethren, where frequent services were held, and a favorite stopping place for the circuit preacher. Aunt Rhoda Cady was a model cook, which fact added much to the fame of the Tavern, and her delicious gingerbread became famous, and its sale on "Training Days" added many an honest penny to the household treasury. It is said that her skill as a cook has been inherited by her daughters and granddaughters down to the present time.

127a. ISAAC⁵ CADY, (Phineas⁴, Daniel³, Daniel², Nicholas¹), b. Pomfret, Conn., Dec. 25, 1739; m. Oct. 1, 1760, Sarah Hendrick. He enlisted as a soldier in the Revolutionary war July 18, 1782, served till the close of the war and was discharged in Nov., 1782. He went from Pomfret, Conn., and settled in Alstead, N. H., in 1763. The record of Isaac Cady's family is not as complete as could be desired; it also seems evident that the births of two sons at least did not have their record on the Alstead books, viz.: Noah and Calvin, so with great probability they have been added to the list here, for we find that Isaac, Noah, Jacob, Calvin and Lavina all settled in nearby towns in Vermont at an early date soon after marriage, which fact lends strength to the idea of their close relationship. The dates of birth of several of the children are tentative, but probably very nearly correct.

Children, b. Alstead, save the oldest:

Her grandfather was Jacob³, Joseph², Andrew¹ Warner, the emigrant to Cambridge, Mass., 1632, of Hartford 1639, and an early settler at Hadley, Mass. Jeremiah Cady d. Hadley, Mass., June 4, 1848; his wife d. abt. 1829.

Jeremiah Cady removed with his parents from Killingly, Conn., to Shutesbury, Mass., in 1764. He belonged to a race noted for its military spirit, and early imbibed the spirit that was stirring the minds of men to action. At the age of twenty-one he made a visit to Boston, in December, 1773, and chanced to attend that remarkable meeting at the Old South Church which set the pace for the American Spirit of Independence in the determination not to allow tea to be forced upon them against their will. Fired by the impassioned speech of Samuel Adams, he accepted the invitation to join the immortal tea party that consigned the obnoxious cargo of tea into the hands of Neptune on the night of December 16, 1773. In after years he often recited the incidents of his connection with that tea party, and although his name does not appear in the imperfect list which has been published, there is no doubt that he was a member of the party, for he was a man of probity and not given to vain boasting, and with others his name was carefully concealed for politic reasons.

The hill town of Shutesbury was not lacking in its expression of patriotism, and on one occasion when the Cadys and others had planted a liberty pole, Mr. Hill, the rank Tory minister of the town, came and ordered the rebels to disperse; whereupon he was ordered himself to go home, and refusing to do so, young Jeremiah Cady seized him and threw him a rod in the home direction, when the offending one deemed it prudent to obey. Young Cady possessed a giant's strength, and the diminutive Mr. Hill was but a toy in his hands. In 1778 the Tory Hill found it convenient to leave town, to the great relief of every patriotic citizen.

With such a beginning, we are not surprised to find Jeremiah Cady early at the front in his country's service. The archives at the State House in Boston show the following:

"Jeremiah Cady, Shutesbury, Capt. Dickinson's Co., Col. Benj. Ruggles' Regt., received for advanced pay, dated Charlestown, July 27, 1775." Also, "Private, same Co. and Regt. on muster roll, dated Aug. 1, 1775, enlisted May 15, 1775, served 2 mos. 21 days." Also, "Company return dated Prospect Hill, Sept. 28, 1775." Also, "Order for bounty coat, or its equivalent in money; dated Camp near Prospect Hill, Oct. 25, 1775."

He was at the battle of Bunker Hill, and it is a tradition in the family that after six men had been shot down at a certain cannon he quickly volunteered to take the position and kept it, doing good service without harm to himself. The length of his service in the army is not definitely known, although his family assert that it was during the war.

Soon after 1800 he moved with his family to Friendship, Allegany Co., N. Y., then a wilderness. A few years later he moved to Henrietta, Monroe Co., N. Y. Then the country was just being settled and no place had been provided for Sunday service; so after getting their log house in order Mrs. Cady, who with her husband was deeply religious, observed to her neighbors that it did not seem right to spend Sunday without some devotional service. She invited them to her house, which invitation was gladly accepted; Mr. Cady opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Cady read portions of Scripture, and others took part. This custom was continued till a Congregational church was organized in 1818. Jeremiah Cady's name appears as one of its members. He later removed to Cuba, Monroe Co., to live with one of his children, but after the death of his wife he returned to Massachusetts and spent his last days with his daughter Salome, Mrs. David Cook, in Hadley, where he was kindly cared for in his extreme old age.

- iii. Rev. John Clarence Allen, D. D., b. July 28, 1848; m. 1874, Julia I. Johnson. Dr. Allen comes from an ancestry distinguished for religious constancy. His ancestors for generations were Baptists, and in his early home he was surrounded by religious influences which shaped his future career. He received his preparatory education in Wallingford high school, and in Black River Academy, Ludlow, Vt., and was graduated with highest oratorical and other honors at Madison (now Colgate) University, Hamilton, N. Y., in 1874. He entered upon his first pastorate in Newark, N. Y., in 1875, followed in order of time by pastorates in Elizabeth, N. Y., Hanson Place Baptist church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Bergen Baptist church, Jersey City, in all of which charges success has crowned his efforts and large numbers have been added, and more than seven hundred have been baptized by him. In the midst of a revival in Bergen church his health broke down, and he has since preached only as strength and opportunity have permitted. In 1895 the deserved degree of D. D. was accorded him. He has been influential in raising large sums for his denomination, and his activity in temperance and other reform work is highly commendable. He is also active in a number of social organizations. Res. Brooklyn, N. Y.

The foregoing Orrin Peer Allen, b. Wallingford, Vt., Sept. 30, 1833; m. Feb. 20, 1860, Harriet Lyndon Maria Garvin, b. Sept. 12, 1844, d. Palmer, Mass., Feb. 25, 1862; m. (2) June 16, 1863, Lucinda Elmina Scott, b. Vernon, Vt., June 5, 1845, dau. of Eleazer G. and Sarah A. (Noyes) Scott, he being son of Eleazer⁵, Ebenezer⁴, Capt. Moses³, Josiah², William¹, of Hatfield, 1678. She was educated in the common schools of Vernon and at the Vernon Select School, with Oscar Lee, principal, a graduate of Amherst College. In 1892 she spent some time traveling in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Switzerland and Italy, visiting the most noted art galleries of the different countries, in which she took especial interest. Mr. Allen finished his education at Chester (Vt.) Academy. During his course of study there he taught school in Windham, Cavendish and Vernon, Vt. Was for several years superintendent of schools in Vernon, which office he resigned to take the position of principal of the Taunach Institute, Hackensack, N. J., where he remained for four terms, when he resigned and came to Palmer, Mass., Oct. 5, 1859, to engage in the business of pharmacy, which he conducted till 1902, when he retired from business.

He has always held himself aloof from entering the political arena, but has often accepted positions of trust in the various societies with which he has been connected, holding some of the offices for nearly twenty years in succession. He was the prime mover and the chairman of the committee having in charge the compiling and publishing of the history of Palmer in 1889; was one of the founders of the Young Men's Library Association in 1878, and has been one of the trustees since; was the prime mover in establishing the Palmer Historical Society in 1899, and has since been its Curator. Since 1885 he has written voluminous sketches of local history for the press, and since 1890 has devoted much time to the subject of genealogy, having during the time compiled and published the genealogies of the families of Samuel Lee, Abraham Doolittle, John Fairman, Edward Allen, William and John Scott, Samuel Allen, and last, the present volume of the descendants of Nicholas Cady. His line of descent runs thus: O. P.⁶ Allen, (Robert⁵, Robert⁴, Joseph³, Nathaniel², Edward¹), which Edward migrated from London about 1690 and settled on Nantucket Island. He is a lineal descendant from five Mayflower ancestors, viz.: Gov. John Carver, Katherine his wife, John Tilley, Elizabeth his daughter and granddaughter of Gov. Carver, and John Howland, who married Elizabeth Tilley. He has two colonial ancestors who fought in the Indian war, viz.: Capt. Joseph Cady and Capt. Aaron Cook, and four ancestors who served in the Revolutionary war, viz.: Samuel Cady, Shutesbury, Mass., Joseph Allen, Newport, R. I., Ebenezer Burt, Deerfield, Mass., and Townshend, Vt., in battle of Bennington, etc., and Lieut. Amzi Doolittle, Townshend, Vt., in Gen. Samuel Fletcher's Regt. Sept., 1782; each of whom was a great-grandfather. Mrs. Allen has a Colonial war ancestor in the person of Capt. Moses Scott, and three Revolutionary war ancestors in the persons of Lt. Dea. Oliver Noyes, Stephen Johnson and Ebenezer Scott, so that their children are entitled to have five bars if they join the Sons or Daughters of the Revolution.

In politics, Mr. Allen has always been a Republican; is a member of the Masonic fraternity and of the Sons of the American Revolution, and of the Second Congregational church of Palmer. Is a local secretary of the Connecticut Valley Historical Society, and Curator of the Palmer Historical Society.

Manassah Cady performed good service in the Revolutionary war, as will be seen from the following facts gleaned from the report of the Commissioner of the Department of the Interior at Washington: He first enlisted in April, 1776, for one year under Capt. Benoni Cutler of Killingly. He was in the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776. In June or July, 1778 or 9, he enlisted for seven months, and joined the army near West Point. From April, 1780, he served nine months as Corporal of Marines on board the frigate Trumbull, of 28 guns. They sailed from New London, and in latitude 36° and longitude 60° had a battle June 2, 1780, with the frigate Watts, 34 guns. It was a drawn battle, but the Watts had the worst punishment. The Trumbull went to Boston for repairs and then sailed on another cruise for South Carolina. After his return home from this cruise he began the study of navigation with the view of fitting himself for a higher naval position, but the closing of the war induced him to abandon the project. Three of his brothers also had service in the war. Immediately after marriage he settled (1785) in Hartland, Vt., removing thence in 1789 to the adjoining town of Windsor, where he lived till his death.

Mrs. King obtained her education in the schools of Stafford and Somers, and at Wilbraham Academy. After marriage she devoted her best energies to the interests of her family, and like her grandmother, Rhoda Holmes Cady, excelled in the noble art of cooking. She conscientiously trained her children in the right ways of living, aiding them in gaining a higher education, and their later success in life is an abiding tribute to the faithful discharge of a mother's trust. The death of her eldest son in a coasting accident caused her such grief that it induced a disease of the eye, which eventually nearly deprived her of vision, but her natural energy did not forsake her, and later she has devoted her time to the making of rugs, whose beauty is a wonder to her friends.

Children by first marriage, b. Somersville, Conn :

- i. Josie Lomyra Billings, b. Dec. 25, 1864; d. Sept. 17, 1883.

- iii. Alice Billings, b. Jan. 12, 1867. (See below.)

Children by second marriage :

- iv. Flora May King, b. July 19, 1872. (See below.)
- v. Edith Mary, b. Oct. 5, 1874. (See below.)
- vi. Ernest Ralph King, b. March 30, 1877; d. Jan. 10, 1891. the result of a coasting accident.
- vii. Hattie Mabel King, b. April 24, 1879. (See below.)
- viii. Herbert Cady King, b. March 12, 1882. (See below.)
- ix. Jeannie Louise King, b. April 14, 1888. (See below.)
- x. Howard Ernest King, b. March 27, 1890. (See below.)

The foregoing Alice Billings, b. Jan. 12, 1867; m. Dec. 10, 1885, Mayro Keeney, son of Rockwell Keeney, b. Manchester, Conn., July 14, 1862. Res. Somersville, Conn. At the age of thirteen, while Alice Billings was attending the graded school in Somersville, her teacher was forced to leave her position because of illness, and greatly to her surprise, young Alice was asked by the school directors to finish the term as teacher. The school directors' confidence in her intellectual and executive ability was not misplaced, and her success was so notable that she was requested to fill the same position for another term. She then decided to fit herself more thoroughly for teaching and entered Hazardville high school, and later went to Wilbraham Academy, after which she spent two years in successful teaching, when, as often happens, she accepted a permanent position in matrimonial union.

Mr. Keeney finished his education with a three-years' course in Wilbraham Academy, and then engaged service in the Somersville Mfg. Co., owned by his father and brothers, where he gained a thorough knowledge of the woolen business in all of the departments, and was admitted into the firm. In 1904, an account of his health, he left service in the mill but still retaining an interest in the same, and engaged in dairy farming, which he continues with marked skill and success. In 1903 he was elected to represent Somers in the Connecticut Legislature, and served as a member of the finance committee. He was reelected the following year, and was appointed chairman of the finance committee. In 1906 he was elected Senator from the 35th district and was appointed chairman of the committees on banking and school funds, and a member of the labor committee, in each of which he was influential. In 1903 he was chosen Commissioner of Tolland County, which position he still holds.

Children of Mayro and Alice Keeney :

- i. Robert Mayro Keeney, b. May 28, 1887.
- ii. Grace Mabelle Keeney, b. Aug. 14, 1888.
- iii. Rockwell Keeney, b. Nov. 28, 1895.
- iv. Alice Billings Keeney, b. Aug. 11, 1899.

The above Robert Mayro Keeney, after attending the schools of his village entered Hazardville high school, and later Hartford high school, where he graduated with honors and as president of his class in 1905. He was considered the ablest athlete of the school; was captain of the track team for 1904, and won the "Best Athletic Cup" for the school two years in succession. In the fall of 1905 he entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a course of study in mining engineering. In 1907 he transferred his course of study to the School of Mining in Golden, Col., where he intends to obtain his degree in 1910.

The above Grace Mabelle Keeney, after a course of study in her native town and in Hazardville high school, desiring to cultivate a natural gift for music, has entered the Whiting School of Music in Boston, where she is making such good progress that she will doubtless remain and finish the course.

The foregoing Flora May King, dau. of Ralph and L. Lomyra (Davis) B. King, after receiving her education in the graded schools of Somersville, Conn., finding no opportunity to enter a higher institution of learning, imposed upon herself the task of devoting a part of each day to the study of the higher branches, which she rapidly mastered, such was her intense interest in them. Then to fit herself for teaching she took up a correspondence normal course for teachers, which she succeeded in passing very creditably. In 1893 she began teaching in a district school in Somers, where she remained for two years, when she was promoted to a position in the intermediate department in the Somersville school, remaining there four years, or until 1899, when she was advanced to the grammar department, where she remained five years, during which time she was gradually promoted till she had the oversight of the entire building. At the expiration of this time she resigned to accept a higher position as principal of a school in Southington, Conn., where she was popular and successful; but being offered a still higher position in the Northwest School of Hartford, she resigned and accepted it, beginning work in her new charge in September, 1905, where she has found the work so congenial that she has remained there till the present time, 1909. About 1897 Miss King became interested with her cousin, D. H. Cady, in gathering records of the descendants of Daniel Cady of Stafford, Conn. She became so interested in the work that she continued the research after Mr. Cady's death in 1902. At a meeting of the Holmes-Cady Association in 1906 it was voted that O. P. Allen of Palmer, Miss Flora M. King of Somersville and F. W. Cady of East Providence be a committee to put in proper form for publishing such records of the descendants of Nicholas Cady of Watertown, Mass., 1645, as were obtainable, and O. P. Allen was invited to perform the task of compiling the same. The compiler of this work is pleased to take this occasion to testify to the faithful and patient manner in which Miss King has performed the part assigned her.

The foregoing Edith Mary King, m. June 27, 1901, Alfred M. Smith, b. Cheshire, Conn., Feb. 18, 1875. Res. Southington, Conn. Miss King received her education in the graded schools of Somersville, later taking courses of instruction to fit her for teaching. She began teaching in a district school in her native town at an early age, rising to a position in the intermediate department of the Somersville school. She resigned her position there to take a more lucrative one in Southington, Conn., where she was advanced to the position of principal of the largest school in town, where she taught eleven years with success, the last seven years as principal. She is a member of the First Congregational church of Southington, and of the Hannah Woodruff chapter of the D. A. R., being a prominent member in both organizations.

Mr. Smith began his education in his native town and graduated from the Lewis high school of Southington in 1893. He has been bookkeeper for the Atwater Mfg. Co. of Somersville since 1901. He is highly esteemed by all who know him, and is an active member of St. Paul's Episcopal church, in which he has served as choir master, lay reader, and superintendent of the Sunday school.

The foregoing Hattie Mabel King, m. April 3, 1907, William R. Brown, farmer, of Watertown, Conn. Child: Raymond Leroy

Brown, b. Oct. 19, 1908. Miss King received her education in the graded and high schools of Somersville. She began teaching in her native town in 1898, and was soon promoted to a position in the intermediate department in the Somersville school, where she wrought with her sister Flora for four years with notable success, making, with the exception of one year's interim, fourteen consecutive years of teaching service rendered by the King sisters. In 1904 she accepted an invitation to teach in Southington, Conn., where her pleasing address and original way of imparting instruction won her great favor with all. She resigned here to take a better position in a Hartford school, where after two years of successful work she resigned to enter the matrimonial state.

The foregoing Herbert Cady King, m. July 26, 1905, Muriel B. Ellis of Oldtown, Me. Their children are: (1) Ralph Charles King, b. July 5, 1906. (2) Dwight Howard King, b. July 3, 1908. Mr. King having taken a careful course of training in the art of painting and lettering wagons and carriages, has become an expert in such work. Has been employed in Oldtown, Me., in Hartford, Conn., and is now in the employ of the Stevens-Duryea Automobile Co. of Chicopee, Mass.

The foregoing Jeannie Louise King received her early education in the common and high schools of Somers, from the latter of which she graduated with honor and as the class prophet at the early age of fifteen. Then she taught school two years in her native town most acceptably. In 1905 she entered the New Britain Normal School, where she was popular and was chosen the president of her class. She made such rapid progress in study that she graduated in 1907, and soon after accepted a position in the Northeast School of Hartford, where with her sister Flora she is making an excellent record as a teacher. The preceding five King sisters are holders of Connecticut State teachers' certificates. The sketches regarding them have been made more full than is usual in a work of this nature for an object lesson, showing how patient persistence can overcome difficulties and win abundant success.

The foregoing Howard Ernest King, son of Ralph and L. Lomyra Davis B. King, was educated in the Somersville schools, the Hazardville high school, and graduated with honor from the Enfield high school in June, 1905. His natural tastes inclined him to a collegiate course, but difficulties seemed to bar the way, so he thoroughly learned his father's trade and has already become an expert in the business, and no doubt will win success.

266. WELCOME JEDEDIAH⁶ CADY, (Jedediah⁵, Jonas⁴, Daniel³, James², Nicholas¹), b. Stafford, Conn., Dec. 13, 1807; m. May 14, 1832, Maria Hendrick. He d. April 14, 1889; she d. Sept. 15, 1891. When his father was informed that a son was born to him he said: "He is welcome," so the name Welcome Jedediah was given him. He was born in Tray Hollow and spent his boyhood there, also the first year of his married life in conducting the farm left him by his father. The next year he sold the farm for $1800 to his brother-in-law, Noah Chapin. He then removed to Stafford Street and engaged in conducting a general store in partnership with Eznall Winter. After two years he sold his interest and went to Willington and opened another store on his own account, selling out after two years. In 1839 he settled in Agawam Parish, West Springfield, Mass., where he bought real estate and made brick till 1845, when he removed to Enfield, Conn., bought land, built a house and continued brick making and built several brick houses. In 1855 he began the manufacture of wines from native fruits, which increased in quantity and general favor, until in 1885 there was a stock on hand of several thousand gallons, being the largest in Southern New England. After the stock was sold the manufacture was discontinued. His son Dwight was taken into partnership in 1862. Welcome J. Cady was brought up in the faith of the Methodist denomination, but after he removed to Enfield he became a Second Adventist. He was a man of deep religious faith, just and honest in all his dealings, and respected by all.

The first of these is the fact that the medical profession is not a homogeneous group. There are many different types of physicians, and each type has its own special interests. For example, the general practitioner is interested in the health of the community as a whole, while the specialist is interested in the health of a particular organ or system. This difference of interest is one of the reasons why the medical profession is so difficult to organize. Each type of physician wants to protect its own interests, and it is often difficult to find a common ground for all of them.

The second reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very large profession. There are over 200,000 physicians in the United States, and this makes it very difficult to get all of them to agree on anything. Even if they did agree, it would be very difficult to enforce their agreement. The medical profession is a very powerful group, and it is often difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The third reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very old profession. It has a long history, and it has many traditions. These traditions are often very difficult to change, and this makes it very difficult to organize the profession. For example, the medical profession has a long tradition of secrecy, and this makes it very difficult to get it to share its knowledge with the public.

The fourth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very complex profession. There are many different types of physicians, and each type has its own special interests. This makes it very difficult to get all of them to agree on anything. Even if they did agree, it would be very difficult to enforce their agreement. The medical profession is a very powerful group, and it is often difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The fifth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very expensive profession. It costs a great deal of money to train a physician, and this makes it very difficult to get the medical profession to do anything that it does not want to do. For example, the medical profession is often very resistant to change, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The sixth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very powerful profession. It has a great deal of influence over the health of the community, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do. For example, the medical profession is often very resistant to change, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The seventh reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very complex profession. There are many different types of physicians, and each type has its own special interests. This makes it very difficult to get all of them to agree on anything. Even if they did agree, it would be very difficult to enforce their agreement. The medical profession is a very powerful group, and it is often difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The eighth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very expensive profession. It costs a great deal of money to train a physician, and this makes it very difficult to get the medical profession to do anything that it does not want to do. For example, the medical profession is often very resistant to change, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The ninth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very powerful profession. It has a great deal of influence over the health of the community, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do. For example, the medical profession is often very resistant to change, and this makes it very difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

The tenth reason why the medical profession is so difficult to organize is the fact that it is a very complex profession. There are many different types of physicians, and each type has its own special interests. This makes it very difficult to get all of them to agree on anything. Even if they did agree, it would be very difficult to enforce their agreement. The medical profession is a very powerful group, and it is often difficult to get it to do anything that it does not want to do.

He was a soldier in the War of 1812, and for his valiant service his widow received a pension from the U. S. Government. He nourished the military spirit after his return to his native town, and in time was promoted to the position of Captain in the State Militia. He was a man of forceful character and of a fine presence, and a born leader in the community, where he was prominent in town affairs, valued for his ability and strict integrity. He was a good business manager, and at his death left four well-ordered farms and other valuable estate for the benefit of his posterity. He was a regular attendant and consistent member of the Unitarian church of Brooklyn.

- x. Franklin Pierce Johnson, b. Dec. 26, 1852; m. Caroline McWay. Res. Worcester, Mass.

The above Daniel H. Johnson, obtained his education in his native town and in Killingly Academy. He became proficient in the higher mathematics and in Latin and English, and for several years was a successful teacher in the public schools of R. I. and Conn. Later he learned the carpenter's trade and became a contractor and builder with sufficient architectural knowledge to draw and plan his own buildings, following his profession in the borough of Danielson, Conn., until his death. He was one of the foremost men of the community, and for many years was on the board of Alderman of Danielson. He married, early in life, Maria Stone, which union proved a happy one. No children were born to them. He was successful in business and left a handsome property, and best of all — an honored memory.

The above Jerry Johnson also gained his education in the schools of Brooklyn and in Killingly Academy. He taught school for several terms, and took a position as a clerk in a store. Inheriting a love for military life from his grandsires, he enlisted, 1861, in the first Conn. Heavy Artillery, Army of the Potomac, and served through the war. After the war he engaged with the Norwich Lock Mfg. Co., Norwich, Conn., where he resided during the remainder of his life. He married Ida Thompson, by whom he had a son and two daughters. He m. (2) Ella Bogue, who survives him. He was a member of the First M. E. church of Norwich, also of the Grand Army. He was highly esteemed for the consistent and even tenor of his life.

The above George Cady Johnson passed his childhood on the "Cady Place" in Brooklyn, Conn., inherited by his mother from her father, Capt. Samuel Cady. His early school days were spent in the public schools of Brooklyn and the Killingly Academy. Later he went to Worcester, Mass., and entered the employ of Hamilton & Dodge in the printing office of the "Palladium." He attended the B. G. Howe Business College, and also began the study of instrumental music under the instruction of Miss Sarah B. Collyer, after which he returned to the Brooklyn farm and taught music to private pupils, conducted the choir music of the Brooklyn Baptist church, of which he became a member, from 1864, to the present, and finished his schooling in the Danielson high school in the study of Latin and Greek, and other preparatory studies. Having finished school in 1876, he engaged to travel for the Appleton Publishing Company with and under the direction of his cousin, Emily L. Cady, a long experienced agent for the same firm then operating in Pennsylvania. On this tour he visited the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, and terminated these labors in Baltimore, Md. Here he was elected a teacher in the State reformatory institution "The House of Refuge," in which capacity he remained for over twelve years, at the same time filling the position of instructor of vocal music and chapel organist, and lastly taking on also the office of Assistant Superintendent. He also filled the position of organist of Trinity (Episcopal) church, Broadway, Baltimore; and in the same city he devoted much time to the study of art, carrying on art study after this in N. Y. City, in private schools and in the Academy of Art and Design at 23d street and 4th avenue. Being a lover of nature and travel he took the opportunity on summer vacations to visit the resorts of beautiful scenery in our own land, such as Niagara, the White Mountains, Chicago and the Great Lakes, the Hudson, Saratoga Springs, Mt. Vernon, and the delightful ocean voyage from Baltimore to Boston. Attracted to the Pacific coast, he continued his natural inclination for travel and research, and in January, 1892, sailed from New York City for Seattle via the Isthmus of Panama, visiting with pleasure and profit many Spanish ports of the Pacific with camera and brush, carrying away sketches of many quaint and historic sites. During his first year in Seattle he was elected president of the Seattle Art League. In the following year he was engaged as teacher in the public schools of Washington, and has continued this work for the past eighteen years to date, 1909, with only the interval of one year, when he conducted a general store and served as postmaster in the ancient town of Seabeck, Wash., doing a successful business, but out of love for schools he resigned the position and returned to teaching, in which work he is still engaged (Nov. 1909), thus having taught with more than ordinary success for over thirty years. He is a member of these orders: Ancient Order of United Workmen, Masonic Order, Royal Arch, Eastern Star, Knights of Pythias, and has maintained his relationship as a consistent member of the Brooklyn Baptist church since the date of uniting in 1864. He has never married, but has found opportunity to do much philanthropic work for the neglected and orphans, devoting to such purposes more means in general than reserved for personal use, although he enjoys the reputation of being one of the substantial property owners of the incorporated town of Port Orchard, county seat of Kissup Co., Wash., where he resides and is surrounded by many friends and associates.

278. ISAAC⁶ CADY, (Isaac⁵, Phineas⁴, Daniel³, Daniel², Nicholas¹), b. Alstead, N. H., about 1765 ; he m.—date and name of wife unknown. In U. S. census of N. H. in 1790 his name appears in Alstead, himself and wife only, so it is supposed he was m. about 1790. He removed from Alstead and settled in Kingston, now Granville, Vt., and has been credited with a family of 17 sons and 2 daughters, but I have been unable to obtain any record save of one son.

Child :

- 520. Isaac, b. Alstead, July 26, 1793.

279. NOAH⁶ CADY, (Isaac⁵, Phineas⁴, Daniel³, Daniel², Nicholas¹), b. abt. 1767. The first reliable mention of this Noah Cady is found in the U. S. census of Vermont in 1790, which locates him in Hancock, Vt., and gives him a household of one male and one female, from which we may infer that he had just been married. The town of Hancock was first settled in 1788 and organized in 1792, when Noah Cady was elected the first Constable. He remained in town until 1820, when he removed to Braintree, Vt., where he died in 1848. The date of his marriage and name of his wife have not been learned. While the fact has not been proved, it is supposed with great probability that Noah was the son of Isaac⁵ of Alstead, N. H. Isaac⁶, a known son of Isaac⁵ of Alstead, settled in Greenville ; Jacob, another known son, settled in Royalton, and a daughter, Lavina, settled in Concord, while Calvin, a supposed son, settled in Roxbury. All removed to Vermont at about the same time, with ages allowing them to be members of the same family. The children of Noah Cady were b. in Hancock, Vt., with one exception.

Children :

where he took up his location and began improvements on a large scale, and is said to have contributed to the promotion of the interests of the city more than any other person. Although averse to politics, he was induced to accept the Whig nomination for Governor of Wisconsin in 1851 and was elected to the office, filling the gubernatorial chair from 1852 till Jan. 2, 1854. In 1863 he was appointed by President Lincoln assistant examiner in the patent office in Washington and was promoted to principal examiner three months later, holding the position 9 years. He resigned and a few years later removed to Grant City, Mo., to spend his days.*

347. HOWARD CLEVELAND⁶ CADY, (James H.⁵, Capt. David⁴, Capt. David³, Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. Killingly, Conn., Oct. 2, 1822; m. Mary Denison Heard, b. Aug. 1, 1821, d. Oct. 13, 1883; he d. March 23, 1889.

Mr. Cady came from a long line of cultured and distinguished ancestry. He was a resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., from 1825 to 1865. He was admitted to the bar in 1844 and commenced practice in New York City, where he continued a lawyer until about 1870. At the age of 25 he was elected an Alderman of Brooklyn, and became chairman of the Judiciary of the board. At the close of his term in 1849 he was chosen as City Attorney. In 1851 he was elected to the New York Legislature and was placed at the head of the Committee on the Codification of the Laws, which was adopted by both branches of the Legislature and has since continued the code of procedure in New York. He also served as chairman of the Committee on Emigration, and had his suggestions adopted against great opposition by interested parties, which suggestions have been carried out by New York and Congress. He served with great distinction during two sessions of the Legislature, and was unanimously nominated for a third term but declined the honor. He served for several years as counsel for the City Water Board, and his plans were carried out against strong opposition. In 1859 he was elected to the office of Registrar, and later was appointed one of the Judges of Brooklyn, and during the draft was efficient in raising a regiment and was offered the position of Colonel, which he declined. In 1870 he met with severe financial losses, but undaunted he began life anew and won success out of failure. In 1875 he removed to Washington, D. C., where he took rank with the ablest lawyers and renewed the success of his earlier years. As a lawyer he was judicial, keenly analytical, and prepared his cases with great care. He was a lover of the classics, poetry and the Bible, and above all a devoted Christian, and ever sustained a character above reproach.*

353. REV. JONATHAN⁶ CADY, (David⁵, Capt. Jonathan⁴, Capt. David³, Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. Killingly, Conn., Jan. 9, 1802; m. May 31, 1823, Eliza Petty, dau. of David and Betsey (Gladding) Petty, b. Providence, R. I., Oct. 12, 1804, d. April 28, 1882; he d. in Providence, July 18, 1886. Both are buried in the North Cemetery of Providence. Mr. Cady in early boyhood moved with his father to Jewett City, Conn., where he entered a cotton mill and became a bobbin boy, where he continued until the age of 18, when he went to Providence and engaged with Cyrus Manchester as a carpenter's apprentice, and remained till of age. After this he formed two partnerships in succession for conducting the business of house building with much success until he was about 30 years of age. Being of a highly religious temperament, he had in early life united with the Old First M. E. church, and was active in its field of work. In 1831 he obtained a license to preach, and although hampered by a limited education he was soon invited to join the N. E. Conference, and such was his natural talent, fostered by such study as he could devote to his chosen work, that he filled his various appointments with approbation for many years as follows in succession, viz.: Warwick circuit, Webster and Holland, Mass., Newport, Portsmouth, R. I., Attleboro, Milford, Mass., Pawtucket, Bristol, R. I., New Bedford, Mass., Willimantic, Tolland Mission, Conn., and South Providence, R. I. In 1854 he was placed on the supernumerary list, but continued to supply for several years. In several of his appointments he built churches or closed up the work begun by others. About 1858 he built a house in Providence, where he lived until his death. He was a man of fervent piety, stern integrity, faithful in his work as a builder or as minister, possessing a kindness of heart which endeared him to all, living a life which fully exemplified the best virtues of a Christian.

Dec. 5, 1889, Sennett, N. Y.; she was living in 1908 in Sennett with her dau., Ida.

Dr. Cady Jr. practiced medicine for about forty years with a success rarely met with. His practice extended to the different towns bordering on his own, and even into and beyond the city of Auburn. As was the case with his father, he never could or would refuse to respond to the calls of the poor and needy, and never tried to enforce the collection of an account against them. Being a man of great ability he was often solicited to take positions of trust but always declined to do so, preferring to give his whole attention to his chosen profession. Both the Dr. and his excellent wife were consistent and honored members of the Baptist church of Sennett.

She had good training under her able father's care, and in Miss Willard's "Troy Female Academy," so that she was well prepared for the life battle which she had mapped out for herself in promoting the exaltation of her sex before the law. She lived long enough to command the respect of all and witness the accomplishment of many of her cherished plans, and win the gratitude of woman for all time. She had a leading hand in producing that standard work, "The History of Woman Suffrage," in three volumes. Her marriage to Mr. Stanton was singularly fortunate, for he was in full accord with his wife's views. He was one of the early anti-slavery agitators, and a journalist who won many honors in the advocacy of what he deemed right. He was also a born orator and debater. He was the author of "Sketches of Reform and Reformers in Great Britain and Ireland," and "Random Recollections."

Children of Daniel and Fidelia W. Cady:

- i. Rush Palmer, b. Dec. 1, 1841; d. July 24, 1863. In his short life he gave evidence of a brilliant mind. He was prepared to enter college at the age of fifteen and shortly after entered Hamilton College, and while in his senior year, in the nineteenth year of his age, he assisted in recruiting and enlisted in the 97th Regt. N. Y. State Volunteers, in the war of the Rebellion. He was with his regiment in a number of severe engagements, and at the battle of Gettysburg was attached to the First Army Corps, commanded by Gen. Reynolds. In this battle this corps was subjected to very severe fighting, and in the second day's battle, while in command of his company (K), Mr. Cady, then First Lieutenant, was mortally wounded. He was an earnest, sincere, Christian gentleman. "At this day, more than forty years after his death," said his brother, "I frequently meet friends who knew him, all of whom evince the tenderest feelings of regard in their memories of him."

634. ii. Eliza Fidelia, b. Aug. 24, 1843.

the first of these was the fact that the government was not able to pay its debts. This was due to the fact that the government had borrowed money from foreign countries, and it was unable to pay it back. This led to a loss of confidence in the government, and it was forced to raise taxes. This in turn led to a loss of support for the government, and it was eventually forced to resign. The second of these was the fact that the government was unable to maintain a stable currency. This was due to the fact that the government had printed too much money, and this led to inflation. This in turn led to a loss of confidence in the government, and it was forced to raise taxes. This in turn led to a loss of support for the government, and it was eventually forced to resign. The third of these was the fact that the government was unable to maintain a stable economy. This was due to the fact that the government had raised taxes too high, and this led to a loss of support for the government. This in turn led to a loss of confidence in the government, and it was forced to raise taxes. This in turn led to a loss of support for the government, and it was eventually forced to resign.

The fourth of these was the fact that the government was unable to maintain a stable political system. Mr. Cady is reckoned among the respected pioneers of Schuyler Co., Illinois, who have won their way to success. He calls himself a Jackson Democrat, but has never entered the field of politics nor sought office. Is a member of the Christian church, as was his wife. Is a Royal Arch Mason, and has been W. M. of Camden lodge, No. 648, A. F. & A. M., for many years. He was reared on a farm, but in 1850 he had an attack of the gold fever and went across the plains to California, where he wrought in a gold mine for a year and then took a ranch; he returned home in 1853, via the Isthmus. He now bought 153 cattle and 13 horses and took them across the plains to California; was successful in his venture, and returned home in 1855. He then returned to farming till 1882, acquiring 268 acres of land. Sold out in 1882 and built a store in Camden, which he and his son Everett conducted for ten years; he then retired, renting the store.

 ii. Fannie Estella White; m. March 30, 1869, Alphonso E. White, who d. March 14, 1905. He was pastor of the Universalist churches in Attleboro, Lawrence and Cambridge, Mass. He also spent much time in educational work. Res. of Mrs. White, Methuen, Mass. Ch.: (1) Fannie Emma White, b. July 13, 1882; m. Oct. 10, 1908, Dr. Isaac Hartshorne. (2) Alfred Everett White, b. Jan. 18, 1888. (3) Charles Francis White, b. Dec. 5, 1892.
 iii. Alfred Henry White, b. Oct. 11, 1846; m. June 16, 1870, Memphis, Tenn., Mary Louise Simmons, dau. of Sion Roger and Mary Emily (Carpenter) Simmons.

Mr. White is descended from "the Puritans of old England, and in this country he traces his genealogy through a long line of God-fearing ancestors to John White, who twelve years after the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth first settled at Cambridge in 1632. It is a distinguishing characteristic of the White family to have always enjoyed the confidence and esteem of their neighbors, as witness Nathaniel, son of John, a member of the General Court or Legislature of Connecticut from 1659 to 1710; his last election was his 85th, and his age 81. In those days an election was held for each session, and many times more than one session was held during the year.

"After receiving a New England high school education Mr. White entered early upon a business career, first in Boston and later in Springfield, Mass. In 1871 he removed to Memphis, Tenn., and engaged in the insurance business. In 1877, at the request of the receivers of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of St. Louis, he removed to that city to assist them, and there he has since resided. In January, 1883, he became Deputy Circuit Clerk, and with the exception of two years spent as secretary of a mining company, he held that very important position for a period of twenty years, serving under three Republican and two Democratic clerks. He discharged with great zeal and fidelity the numerous and exacting duties of that office."

Mr. White was made a Mason in De Soto lodge, No. 299, Memphis, Tenn., in 1874, and since then he has successfully passed to the highest degrees in Masonry, including the Scottish Rite, and has held and honorably filled many of the highest official positions in the order. In 1908-1909 he held the office of Grand High Priest of R. A. Masons of Missouri. "Few men and few Masons have such a fine record of activity and useful service."*

As a boy Mr. Cady was studious and well behaved in school, a good scholar and a general favorite with teachers and fellow-pupils. He received his education in the public schools of Thompsonville, Conn., and graduated there from the high school in 1858. He then took a course of study in the Suffield Institute for a year, and began life with a good business education. Being an only son it was natural for him to remain with his father and enter into business with him as a partner under the firm name of W. J. Cady & Son. He was financially successful in all of his undertakings. After living just fifty years in Thompsonville, he left the homestead in the hands of his son-in-law, J. W. Parker, and moved to Springfield, Mass., where he purchased a home, and in which city he resided until death. During the last years of his life he became much interested in his Cady ancestry, and collected nearly a complete record of the descendants of his grandfather, Jedediah Cady, having spent much time in searching the town and family records for correct data. In connection with these families he also collected considerable material from other branches and arranged it in proper form for ready reference and with a possible view of publishing the same. The compiler of this volume is gratefully indebted to the patient research of Mr. Cady for much valuable material. It was due to his foresight that the Holmes-Cady Reunion Association was formed and still continues its pleasant and profitable annual meetings, a full account of which will be found in the appendix of this volume. Mr. Cady's parents were Second Adventists and he was in sympathy with them in faith, although he did not identify himself with that body of believers until he was past 40 years of age, after which he was a firm believer in the doctrines which they advocated and a staunch supporter of the same, giving of his time, money and influence to the cause he so much loved. He held positions of trust in the church and in the camp meeting association of Springfield, Mass., having served for several years as superintendent of the camping ground. His honesty was never questioned. He was a man of good financial ability and his advice was often sought by young business men. His sterling qualities of mind and heart, his serene and cheerful intercourse with his fellow-men, his abiding Christian faith attracted a large circle of friends by whom he was sincerely mourned when parted from them by death.

Mr. Cady's mother was Rebecca Smith, dau. of Thomas Smith, whose father was a resident of Long Island and was driven from his farm by the British during the Revolutionary war, after which Thomas became one of General Washington's bodyguard. Mrs. Cady's father was descended from Joshua Branchall, who emigrated from Portland, England, in 1712 to Plymouth, Mass. Mr. Cady d. ———; she d. 1866. Mr. Cady purchased a farm of 90 acres in Dryden, N. Y., in 1816, and added to it from time to time until it contained about 600 acres, mostly cleared from heavy timber and stumps and put in a high state of cultivation. Mr. Cady was one of the wealthiest citizens of his town, and did as much to improve and elevate all of the farming and business interests of his adopted town as any citizen who ever resided in it. He was an active and hearty supporter of all important public enterprises. He contributed $7000 towards building the Southern Central Railroad after he was 75 years old. He was a man of conceded ability and rare good judgment, as well as a man of strictest integrity. He held several important town offices, including that of Supervisor, for several terms, and he was a member of the State Legislature during the years 1850 and 1857, and gave entire satisfaction to his constituents.

"It was characteristic of the man who had played the violin, taught the young people to dance, and had been the most popular prompter in Eastern Connecticut for nearly half a century." The uniqueness of the shaft consists in the emblems and inscriptions carved thereon. On one side is cut a violin, above which are the words, "All Ready, Mr. Cady," and below it, "At Rest." On the opposite side is the figure of a cow, with the inscription, "Rosie, my first Jersey cow;" above the figure and below it, "Record: 2 lbs. and 15 ounces of butter from one day's milk." On the third side is the name, "Mary J. Lee," and beneath the name, "She was kind to dumb animals." And on the fourth side the family inscription. No ch.

Mr. Cady came in early youth with his parents to Henry Co., Ill., and in due time engaged in farming and stock raising. In 1874 he removed to Peoria, Ill., and conducted a grain and live stock commission business with success. In 1879 he removed to Chicago in order to enlarge his business and formed the firm of Cady, Dunham & Co., consisting of himself, son and W. M. Dunham, for transacting a live stock commission business, which proved very successful, running into the millions each year. His services proved so valuable to the Chicago Guarantee Fund Life Society that he was elected its President in January, 1891. He was also elected President of the Mississippi Valley Homestead and Loan Co. upon its reorganization. In all of his business ventures, and in all the positions of trust which he held, he proved himself worthy of the confidence reposed in him.

- v. Kittie Calista Dunn, b. May 14, 1856 ; d. May 30, 1907.
Miss Dunn was for several years a missionary in Salt Lake City, leaving that work to enter the Philadelphia Deaconess Home, where she gave most faithful and efficient service as pastor's assistant in the Broad and Arch street church. The summer of 1904 was spent in Buffalo, where she acted as superintendent. In the fall of the same year she went to California, hoping to recruit her failing health; the result was not favorable and she returned to the Home in Philadelphia, where she was tenderly cared for by those to whom she had endeared herself by the beauty and purity of her character and her devotion and loyalty to the Master, until the peaceful end came to relieve her suffering. After the funeral service, all that was mortal of one who had wrought so well for others was taken to New York to be laid to rest among her kindred in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. Cady's education was limited to an attendance at the public schools of his town, one term at Metcalf's Highland Academy at Worcester, and one term at Eastman's Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The years of his minority were spent on his father's farm or in the mill. He was a self-made man, and his latent talent developed as time passed on, making him the successful and forceful man that he was. He began his business career as a clerk in the village store. On Aug. 8, 1862, he enlisted in the navy with Com. W. R. Renshaw, under Com. Farragut. After an honorable service he was discharged Aug. 31, 1863. He returned to Stafford and soon formed a partnership under the firm name of Beebe & Cady, which lasted by limitation for five years. In 1878 he became a member of the firm of Pratt & Cady, Hartford, for the manufacture of steam boiler appliances, of which he was soon made secretary and treasurer, and later president and treasurer, retiring in 1898. In the fall of 1892 he was elected Lieut. Governor of Connecticut on the Democratic ticket; as President of the Senate, he presided so impartially that none of his decisions were questioned. At the close of his term of office he was nominated for Governor, but was defeated. He was a member of many clubs and societies, and of the various Masonic orders.

He was the son of Henry David Winton, and great-grandson of Lord Stetson, fifth Earl of Winton. He was educated by the late Archdeacon Bridge of St. Johns, Newfoundland, for professional life, and like his father, took to journalism as a profession. In 1846 he entered the Liverpool (Eng.) Mail, the late Dr. Alexander being editor. In 1849 he returned to Newfoundland and shortly afterward left for the United States, where he took an interest in the North Adams Transcript as editor and proprietor. He also purchased and edited the Meriden (Conn.) Chronicle. In 1859 he became Secretary to the Republican convention at Hinsdale, which nominated W. S. Brckingham for Governor. Returned to Newfoundland in 1860 by urgent request of friends and established the first daily paper in that Colony, "The Daily Times," and subsequently the North Star. He was appointed clerk of the House of Assembly; was nominated by the Duke of Manchester and elected a Fellow of the Royal Colonial Institute of London, Eng., in 1876; in 1881 became corresponding member of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington. The St. Johns Telegram, referring to his decease, says of him: "His agreeable and interesting style and argumentative treatment of men and questions left impressions that can never be effaced. It was a heavy public loss to the journalism of the Colony (nor has it since been repaired) when Mr. Winton left the shores of Newfoundland."

foundland"; "The Story of Mary March"; "The Anglo-American Treaty Respecting the Newfoundland Fisheries"; "Republican Diplomacy, Its Present and Ultimate Results." His controversy with Prof. Golden Smith in 1887 on the political aspect of the temperance question occasioned strong public approval throughout the Province of Ontario, and resulted in direct government control of the liquor traffic, with most favorable results. The Evening Telegram, St. Johns, Newfoundland, states: "Mr. A. C. Winton is a graceful and pleasing writer, and should he realize the expectation of his friends, and it is pretty certain that he will, with him three generations of this remarkable family will have left their footprints in the sands of time." Mr. Winton is at present connected with the Grand Trunk Railway, and also the Wabash Railway, having charge of the claims department of these roads in the Niagara Peninsula. He resides in Buffalo, N. Y. Ch.: (1) Beatrice Eleanor Frances Winton, b. March 26, 1895. (2) Hamilton Girdlestone Winton, b. March 10, 1900. (3) Evelyn Charlotte Winton, b. April 17, 1903. 570. REV. HENRY OLIN⁷ CADY, (Gardner C.⁶, Isaac⁵, Isaac⁴, Capt. David³, Capt. Joseph², Nicholas¹), b. Sept. 12, 1857; m. June 11, 1894, Hattie Yates, b. Fayette, Iowa, July 30, 1867, dau. of Alphonse B. and Marcy (Hall) Yates.

Mr. Cady entered Middlebury College in 1877; after two years he went to Aurora, Ill., as assistant in Jennings Seminary, then under the charge of his brother, Martin E. Cady; thence he entered the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., where he graduated in 1883, and in 1886 from Garrett Biblical Institute. He was appointed to West China in July, 1886. Located at Chung-hiang, May, 1887, the only American in the western half of China. In 1891 he removed to Chengtu which was his station until 1904, when he returned to this country. He organized the first churches in Chengtu and vicinity in connection with the M. E. church; baptized the first converts; bought the first real estate and prepared the first buildings for church, school and parsonages; opened the first school of Western learning, developed the first high school and projected the first college, now the Union Chengtu University. With other missionaries he was driven from Chengtu in May, 1895, but did not leave the province; had reopened the work in December. Was the first foreign teacher employed by the Chinese government in West China in 1903. He occupied all kinds of positions in the mission, and did all kinds of work that come to a pioneer missionary. He was placed on the relieved list of the missionary society in October, 1905. He supplied Mandel church, Chicago, from Oct., 1906, to 1907; the Englewood M. E. church 1908-9, and now (1909) is stationed at Palatine, Ill. Truly such a record is of far greater worth than the conquest of a province by martial arms. Mrs. Cady is an active worker in the Epworth League of Chicago.

(2) Nov. 19, 1884, Mehitable Heman (Doane) Young, wid. of Solomon Young and dau. of John and Abigail (Freeman) Doane. He d. Newport, R. I., May 2, 1907.

He spent his early life with his parents in Providence. On the breaking out of the Civil war he entered the army, being commissioned at first as Captain and later as Major of Rhode Island volunteers, in which positions he served with honor. Leaving the army, he became a typical traveling salesman. In the midst of this successful career he experienced a spiritual transformation which changed his life plans. He soon united with the Trinity church (Methodist), Providence, and such was his zeal and usefulness that he was licensed as an exhorter in March, 1869, and soon became a supply pastor in Pocasset, Mass., and joined the New England Southern Conference in 1871 on trial. In 1873 he was received into full membership and ordained a deacon; in 1875 was ordained elder. This event was followed by 13 pastorates and 36 years of effective service. His exact business methods, his keen insight into human nature, coupled with his true evangelistic spirit made him very successful in all his pastoral relations. He was a member of Slocum Post, G. A. R., Providence, and at one time Chaplain of the G. A. R., State of Rhode Island. He was also a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellow fraternities.

Mr. Cady was educated in the public schools of Providence, and graduated from the Lowell Seminary. He learned the carpenter's trade with the old firm of Tallman & Bucklin of Providence, and in 1860 went into business for himself and erected many notable buildings in Providence and other cities as far west as Cleveland, O. Later he took designing and architecture and became one of the most widely known architects of Providence, and pursued his chosen vocation with marked success until his death. He was also foremost in organizing a pioneer firemen's company, and long aided in maintaining its effectiveness. During the Civil war he held the position of Lieutenant Colonel in one of the home regiments, and held a membership in the First Light Infantry Co. for 50 years. He was an influential member of the Asbury M. E. church. He was also a member of several societies connected with his profession, as well as others. Mr. Cady was noted for his energy, perseverance and success, and commanded the respect and esteem of all.

- Dr. Cady spent three years in Union College, then went to Princeton, from which he graduated in 1885 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1888; thence he went to West Superior, Wis., where he was in charge of the Hainmond avenue Presbyterian church from June, 1888, until December, 1897. In 1894 he was given a leave of absence, when he took his first trip to Egypt and Palestine. In 1897 he took his second trip of exploration, and returned to take charge of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church in Amsterdam, N. Y., where he is now located. On account of his explorations along the west shore of the Dead Sea he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society in 1905, an honor accorded to only a few Americans. He was the first man to photograph that region, and the first to ascend the Arnon, a tributary of the Dead Sea, doing the work under great difficulties and privations.* The result of Dr. Cady's trip abroad has been the production of a remarkable series of lectures on Bible lands, which have been delivered before many of the most select audiences in the country with the most popular effect. One of the pleasant features of the Union College commencement of 1908 was the conferring of the degree of Doctor in Divinity upon Putnam Cady, "for original research in Bible lands; for archaeological and geographical discoveries which have commanded recognition at home and abroad; for fidelity and success in the pastoral office."

Mrs. Cady came from an honorable and widely known family, members of the Society of Friends. She was noted for her strength of character and highly developed mental endowments, and for her sweet Christian life and kind dispensing of charity. Mr. Cady owned a large farm in the center of Chatham, where he was a very capable and popular man and served as Supervisor. He was also a member of the New York Legislature; later he was Harbor Master in New York City.

Children, b. Chatham, N. Y.:

- i. Jonathan Rider, b. July 31, 1851; m. 1874, Sarah Coann Burger. After receiving a good common school education in his native town he attended the Friends' School in Providence, R. I., where he graduated in 1869 as valedictorian of his class. In the same year he entered the office of Gard & Esseltyn in Hudson, N. Y., as a student of the law, where he remained for two years and then completed his legal education in the Albany Law School, where he was admitted to the bar in 1872. While a student he was clerk of a famous assembly judiciary committee of 1872, when he formed the acquaintance of many distinguished men. In 1880 he was appointed Commissioner of the United States Courts for the Southern district of New York. In 1885 he was appointed Postmaster of Hudson, N. Y. In 1888 he was admitted to the Superior Court of the United States at Washington. In 1889 he was elected Judge of Columbia Co., N. Y. He belongs to a family group which has worthily borne judicial honors, and has nobly sustained his part in the profession. He has also been an aggressive campaign speaker in the support of the Republican party for years. He is now the senior partner of the law firm of Cady & DeLameter, of Hudson, N. Y. Mr. Cady belongs to a family which never had any drones in its makeup. He early learned the trade of a stair builder, which he still continues; he also is able to turn his hand to many mechanical devices, to the advantage of himself as well as others. Combined with his business life he has found time to devote to genealogical research and has gathered a mass of data pertaining to his own and some collateral branches of the Cady family, much to the enrichment of this work, which aid the compiler gratefully acknowledges. And besides he has been an active man of affairs in his own locality and the state, as will be seen in the following summary: Member of St. Andrews lodge, No. 39, F. & A. M. of East Providence, of which he is a Past Master; member of chapter No. 1, R. A. M. of East Providence; member of the Masonic Veterans' Association of Rhode Island; Past Grand of I. O. of O. F., Canonicus lodge No. 1; President of the Fire Relief Association of Rhode Island; Secretary and Treasurer of the Rhode Island State Firemen's League; Foreman of the hose company of East Providence since its organization in 1893; one of the ex-presidents of the Fire Association of East Providence; Fire Ward of East Providence for several years. First Meeting Holmes-Cady Memorial Society.

THE HOLMES-CADY MEMORIAL SOCIETY.

THE Holmes-Cady Memorial Society was organized at Ashford, Conn., Aug. 23, 1898, by thirteen ladies and gentlemen, descendants respectively of Nicholas Cady of Watertown, Mass., 1645, and John Holmes of Dorchester, 1664. The party had met at the birthplace of Rhoda (Holmes) Cady for a pleasant outing, when it was proposed to organize a society embracing all descendants of the two allied houses who chose to become members, with the view of holding an annual meeting in August, with a basket picnic, for mutual benefit and enjoyment. The proposition met with such favor that the society was formed at once, and Dwight Holmes Cady of Springfield was elected president, Arthur W. Kingsbury of Stafford Springs vice president, and Mrs. A. W. Kingsbury secretary and treasurer. The members present appear in the group picture on the opposite page, with the exception of Mr. Kingsbury, who acted as photographer. Their names are as follows, from left to right: Front row—(1) Mrs. Charles Thresher, (2) Mrs. Henry Hobby, (3) Ralph King. Second row—(4) Mrs. George R. Kingsbury, (5) D. H. Cady, (6) Mrs. Mary Hobby, (7) Mrs. A. W. Kingsbury, (8) Mrs. Orra Maddams. Third row—(9) Mrs. Ralph King, (10) Mrs. Fluvia Cady, (11) Charles Thresher, (12) Charles H. Hobby.

The second annual meeting was held at the old Jedadiah Cady homestead in Trøy Hollow, West Stafford, Conn.; the third meeting at the Augustus Holmes homestead in West Stafford; the fourth meeting was held at Evergreen Park, between Monson and Stafford, and was continued there each year till 1906. In 1907 the place of meeting was changed to Crystal Lake, Ellington, Conn., a most beautiful resort, and the meetings have since been held there.

Dwight Holmes Cady was annually elected president for five years from 1898 to 1902, the time of his death. Mr. O. M. Brown of Springfield held the office three years from 1903 to 1905, and Orrin P. Allen of Palmer, Mass., was elected in 1906 and has been reëlected each year till the present (1910). Arthur W. Kingsbury of Stafford Springs has held the office of vice president since the organization of the society. Mrs. Mary Fairbank Holmes of West Brookfield, Mass., is the efficient secretary and treasurer. These annual gatherings are attended by about 150 members and are occasions of much enjoyment, when new acquaintances are formed and old friendships are renewed.
